Representative Alexander Says Measure Is Magna Charta of Maritime Trade

FEW MEN CONTROL THE SEA

Congressman Arraigns Interests Fighting Pending Legislation in Congress

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—The Magna Charta of American shipping, proclaiming freedom from the feudal barons of maritime commerce," was the characterization which Representative Alexander, chairman of the house marine committee, applied to the administration ship purchase bill in a speech here tonight before the Boston chamber of commerce.

"To sum up the entire situation," he said, "an investigation will prove that over 90 per cent of the coastwise and practically the entire American foreign shipping is allied through interlocking directorates with the National City bank, United States Trust company, National Bank of Commerce and Guaranty Trust company, all of which have for their fountain head the Rockefeller-Morgan-Perkins interests.

"It is against this aggregation that the administration, representing the American people, finds itself. The shipping interests realize that the entrance of the government into the field will break the chain by which they have the independents shut out. Government owned vessels are what they most fear, for it means a breakwater—a bunker—a protection for the independent who now dares, at his peril, to invest a dollar in shipping against the power of the organization, but who would be willing to invest if fair play was allowed.

Why Eastern Papers Protest.

"It is said the [illegible] interests own, or are [illegible] in, several of the [illegible] papers. The [illegible] are affected by revenues of steamship advertising. Wherefore, you find a stalwart opposition by the eastern newspapers to the government policy.

"The cry of paternalism has been raised, the criticism of government ownership has been advanced and several of the large news and financial papers of the eastern cities appear daily with editorials denouncing the administration's policy. These papers, being the recipients of large incomes from advertising contracts with the steamship companies, are naturally opposed to a plan inimical to the interests of their customers. This fact may affect their vision. The greatest opposing power, however, to the policy of the government, is the steamship companies themselves.

"An investigation of the shipping questions and the interests that are involved reveals some very interesting facts. In the report of the proceedings of the committees on the investigation of shipping combinations, the methods of the shipping interests are fully set forth.

Companies Pool Interests.

"It is shown that a regular system of agreements and pools prevail against which the independent shipper has no chance to live. The committee, in its recommendation states: The committee believes that the disadvantages and abuses connected with steamship agreements and conferences as now conducted are significant and that very few of the principal routes on our entire Atlantic and gulf coasts are served by more than one regular steamship line.'

"The railroad-controlled lines referred to in the report of the committees are the Southern Pacific, or Morgan line, the Old Dominion Steamship company and the Ocean Steamship company or Savannah line. These, with the eastern steamship company and the Atlantic Gulf and West Indian steamship lines, constitute practically the entire coastwise shipping for the

REPUBLICANS SETTLE PATRONAGE QUESTION

Everything in Readiness for Opening of Legislature at Noon Today

DENVER, Jan. 5.—Members of the Republican majority of both branches of the Twentieth general assembly, which convenes tomorrow, agreed today upon practically all patronage matters. But one or two committee chairmanships were undecided when the caucus adjourned late today.

The election of Phillip B. Stewart of Colorado Springs as speaker of the house and Leroy J. Williams as president pro tem of the senate seems certain.

The house minority nominee and floor leader, it is said, will be Stewart Fincher of Breckenridge and the Democratic nominee for president pro tem of the senate will be Samuel Burris of Pueblo.

CARRANZA TROOPS CAPTURE PUEBLA

2,000 Prisoners and 40 Other Successes Are Reported

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 5.—Puebla, capital of the state of Puebla, which was evacuated a month ago by the troops of Gen. Venustiano Carranza, was retaken today after a campaign which began with the capture of Tepeac, a short distance to the southeast of Puebla, six days ago.

The fall of Puebla came after six hours of what is described as having been the most furious bombardment to which any Mexican force has yet been subjected.

General Obregon, commanding the Carranza troops, worked into a position about the city last night with virtually all his forces, which are reported to have aggregated not less than 10,000 men. He had determined to make the battle as short as possible and throw nearly all his men into action, beginning the fighting early in the morning.

After pounding with 82 cannon the positions of the troops of Generals Villa and Zapata, whose strength is estimated to have been some 15,000 men, the troops of General Obregon advanced under the fire of their opponents' artillery.

Other Towns Taken.

When General Obregon left Vera Cruz he told friends at headquarters that he would be in possession of Puebla in eight days. This time was not up until tonight. Other small towns and villages to the east and southeast of Puebla have been taken since his departure and Obregon had made his headquarters division base at Arizaco, where the railroad from Puebla joins the main line of the Mexican railway. Last night he moved this force southward and another force toward the west, cutting both railroads over which the Villa and Zapata forces might proceed toward Mexico City.

Generals Alvaredo and Mallen were in charge of the forces moving from the east and had under their direction most of the cannon. That numerous cannon of high grade and an abundance of ammunition were in Obregon's possession was known here but that he intended to employ so many pieces in one action came as a surprise. The topography about Puebla avails itself easily to a force which can utilize the heights above the city with artillery and Obregon's chief effort was to get possession of the hills. A few guns were mounted to the west of the city, but most of the bombardment was left to Alvaredo and Mallen, who gained the hills to the east after driving the Villa and Zapata men from the ancient forts on their crests.

Losses Are Heavy.

How many of the Villa and Zapata troops escaped is not known, but early reports of the fighting indicate that the greater part of them either were killed or made prisoners. From these reports it would seem that in few of the battles that have occurred in Mexico has the slaughter been so swift and so great.

The hardest part of the action was fought outside the city proper. The dead and wounded are said to cover the ground at some places and to be strewn plentifully across a field whose diameter from west to east is some 12 miles. The bombardment from the 82 cannon was almost incessant according to the official report.

Communication with Puebla was not established until tonight. Just who was in command of the capital forces is not yet known, but their leaders are reported to have been Andrew Almazan and Eufemio Zapata, a brother of Emiliano.

Gutierrez Wants Peace.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Gutierrez government in Mexico in a note to the state department, transmitted today by the Brazilian minister, announced that orders had been sent to General Maytorena, at Naco "to make no attack and to withdraw his forces from the border," pending closer study of the situation, "in its military and political aspect."

The note was dated January 4 and was signed by Ortiz Rodriguez, the Gutierrez acting secretary for foreign affairs. It was as follows:

The government of Mexico, showing the best intention of solving the Naco case in a satisfactory manner, today issued orders by wire to Maytorena to make no attack and to withdraw his forces from the border. As, for the time being, the situation is so much relieved, the foreign office at Mexico City will take the time necessary for the purpose of making a study of the case in its military and political aspects, with the view of giving its final decision. This course will be followed because of the fact that the acting secretary for foreign affairs is very much occupied with the work of reorganizing the office force and in giving attention to other important affairs of an international character."

UNIONISTS MUST PAY DAMAGES TO DANBURY HATTERS

Supreme Court Decision Ends Case Hanging Fire for Past 11 Years

HAVE TO PAY $252,130.09

200 Union Men Held Liable for Boycott Against the Hat Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Ending 11 years of litigation, the supreme court today held that some 200 Connecticut labor union members must pay $252,130.09 damages under the Sherman anti-trust law for a nationwide boycott of D. E. Loewe & Co., Danbury, Conn., hat manufacturers who refused to unionize their shops. The bank accounts and homes of many of the men already are under attachment to pay the judgment and the next step probably will be foreclosure.

Leading lawyers of congress disagree today on whether this decision meant that union workmen would be liable in the future for damages on account of boycotts. Some hold that the Clayton antitrust law, passed last year after this suit had been tried, would make another such prosecution impossible.

It was in the Danbury hatters' case that the supreme court decided in 1908 that labor unions were subject to the terms of the Sherman antitrust law and sent the suit back to the New York federal courts for trial. The judgment, the largest ever before the court under the Sherman law, as well as the vigorous defense of the union men attracted widespread attention to the litigation.

Decision Unanimous.

Justice Holmes announced the court's unanimous opinion today. His discussion of the law involved was brief. He said the ground for discussion under the Sherman law had been cut away by the U. decision, to a large extent, and narrowed further by the Clayton act. In the eastern states retail furniture dealers' [illegible] last year to the effect that the circulation of a list of "unfair dealers" with the intention to put the ban upon these dealers, among a body of possible consumers, combined with a view of joint action,

SELF-DEFENSE PLEA OF LA VETA STRIKERS

May Take Three Weeks to Get Jury in Pueblo Hearing

PUEBLO, Jan. 5.—That self-defense is to be the plea of the eight striking miners charged with the murder of three mine guards and a chauffeur at La Veta, November 8, 1913, became apparent today from the questions put by Attorney John A. Martin for the defense in examining veniremen.

Selecting jurymen was pursued without a break all day. Seventeen were questioned as to their qualifications; four were excused because they declared they had fixed opinions as to guilt or innocence of the defendants, and two were excused on peremptory challenge, one by each side. At the rate the examination was conducted, it will take three weeks to get a jury should each side exercise his full number of peremptory challenges. There are eight defendants and the law allows 15 challenges for each man making 120, and an equal number to the prosecution. However, it is not likely that the full number of challenges will be used, for the majority of those questioned today declared they knew nothing of the La Veta killings and held no prejudice one way or the other.

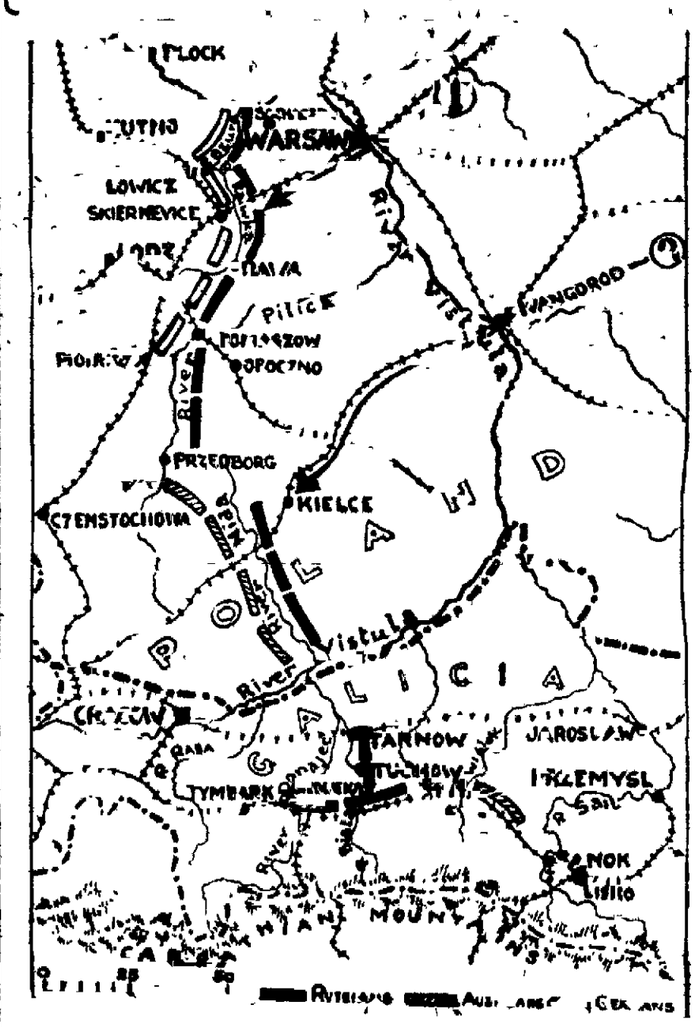

Five of the 17 men examined either now belong or have had membership in labor unions. Two of these declared their prejudices would prevent them from making fair and impartial jurors and they were excused.

DEMOCRATS WORRIED OVER LEGISLATIVE PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Continued belligerency on the part of Republican senators toward the government ship purchase bill has begun to worry administration leaders, who failed today to get the measure before the senate, owing to monopolization of all the time with speeches and appropriation affairs.

Inasmuch as but two months remain in the life of the Sixty-third congress, and the senate has not yet passed any of the big supply bills, the reiterated determination of the minority to fight the ship bill to the last ditch, and to present its consideration whenever possible, has aroused the fears that the administrative legislative program is in danger.

Tonight's Production Promises Big Surprise

By "THE SUBSTITUTE"

"The Critic" is indisposed—which only goes to show how easy it is for "the Critic" [illegible] are not permitted to [illegible] indisposed, but let the fact decide it is more pleasant to sit at the club than to pound a typewriter, and he tells the boy to "call the office and say that The Critic is indisposed and will not be there this evening." In such cases someone else is called. Why I'm always the one chosen is beyond understanding, unless it is that the city ed is reasonably certain that I'm a safe substitute. Leastwise, the order last night was simply, "Fill up the space if you can."

It is fortunate that he added, "if you can," though I must admit that on other occasions it sort o grates on my nerves. This time however I concede "The Critic's" superior wisdom and ability to spread his thoughts smoothly over the keyboard. What the writer knows about Smart Society and tableaux vivants (that's what "The Critic" calls the living pictures) is just what I've read in The Gazette the last few days. As for works of art—society is to make them live at the Opera house tonight, you know—even if they have not been explained very clearly. I might have learned a lot had I been at the Opera house yesterday afternoon during dress rehearsal.

However, it was learned from most excellent authority (one of the Opera house stage crew) that things popped around there in a most unexpected manner. Fact is that Mr. Nickerson, who is directing the production, or productions, whichever it is, didn't have to shout orders so much as once—something most unusual. And Mr. Julian Story, too, was more than pleased. Considering that Mr. Story is one of our greatest artists this means more than a little bit.

The "pictures" were all painted up by Mr. and Mrs. George Gebhart of the Pikes Peak Films company, who volunteered their services for this most important part of the affair, until they looked like—now "The Critic" would know what phrase to use, but I don't. Anyway, you'll know what I mean when I repeat the words of my inside man: "When they (the 'pictures') came in they looked like a million dollars, but when they got all dressed up and painted and posed under those special 'spots' they were S-O-M-E pictures."

Watch "Vogue" Subjects.

As for the pictures to be posed—but there's a program following, so it's almost useless to go on and tell about them, especially when I don't know any more than you do. But here's my advice—watch those 'Vogue' numbers. "Swinging" and "Fishing" and "A Bridesmaid." "The Critic" enthused pretty muchly over them so they must be stunning. From what I've heard they are. Then there are others, "The Lady With the Fan" by Faivre, posed by Mrs. Arlie A. Swenson, and "A Dancing Girl From Bagdad," by Miss Camilla Lippincott, and "Madame Mele-Raymond," by Le Brun, posed by Miss Eleanor Anderson. But I'd have to repeat the entire program to include all the stunners. The works selected are so unusually beautiful, and the

GOETHALS PRAISES CANAL'S BIG GUNS

Says They Are Powerful Enough to Repel Attack by Any Vessel Afloat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Fortifications of the Panama canal were described as satisfactory today by Colonel Goethals, governor of the Canal Zone, before a house appropriations subcommittee.

The colonel told how the great guns mounted at the entrances to the waterway measured up to the heaviest weapons that could be brought to bear by any foreign war craft afloat of carefully planned mine fields and of mammoth searchlights capable of sweeping the entire range of gunfire.

With the committee, Colonel Goethals went over the estimates aggregating $18,000,000 needed for completing and maintaining fortifications and constructing public works in the Canal Zone during the next fiscal year. He explained the situation caused by recent landslides into the canal, telling the committee that the problem had proved to be much more serious than was first supposed. On the original estimates, he said, the engineers expected to have to remove 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth but already 1,500,000 had been removed without clearing the channel. The work had been retarded, he added, by constant interruptions to pass vessels through the canal.

Brigadier General Crozier, chief of the ordnance bureau, and Brigadier General Weaver, chief of coast artillery, gave the committee some details concerning the canal fortifications. It was explained that the 14-inch guns of the main batteries were being bored out to enlarge their powder chambers and give them a range as effective as the 15-inch guns carried by some foreign warships. Originally, the committee was told, the powder chambers had been bored to less than their maximum capacity in order to increase the life of the guns.

When these changes are completed the guns are expected to be more effective than any carried by ships because of the advantage in fixed mounts ashore.

Colonel Goethals urged retention of an item of $40,000 for two lighthouses in Panama bay.

London Preacher Urges Pope Call World Peace Meet

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(Wednesday.)—The Rev. Reginald J. Campbell, one of the most prominent Congregationalists in London and minister of the City temple, suggests, with an object of putting an end to the war that a general council of the world's Christian churches should be summoned.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell says there is only one person, namely, the pope, who could, with any chance of success, call such a conference. There is precedent for this, he says, in the fact that Protestants were summoned to the council of Trent, "and who knows," he adds "but that if they had accepted the invitation the scandal of a divided Christendom might have been averted."

The Rev. Mr. Campbell has been famous for some time because of his somewhat unorthodox views.

RUSSIANS SMASH TURKS IN CAUCASUS; CAPTURE A WHOLE ARMY CORPS

Crash Through Austrian Lines in Carpathians Toward Plains of Hungary

Czar's Troops Holding Lines From Baltic to Black Seas; Severe Fighting in Progress at Extreme Wings of Western Battle Front; French Report Gains From Germans

LONDON, Jan. 6 (Wednesday).—A wireless dispatch received here from Berlin gives a report received in the German capital from Athens that the Dardanelles fortresses have commenced a bombardment of the blockading Anglo-French fleets and that one torpedo boat has been slightly damaged.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Two of the three Turkish columns which last week invaded the Russian Caucasus have met with disaster and the troops not killed or captured are in disorderly retreat, pursued by the Russians. The column which took Ardahan two days ago has been driven out of that town, according to the Petrograd official dispatches, and is almost surrounded by the Russians, who hold the main roads.

Another column, which crossed the frontier near Sari Kamysh, on the road to Kars, has suffered an even worse defeat, one of the two army corps which composed it being captured in its entirety.

The Russians also report another victory over the Austrians in the Uzsok pass of the Carpathians. Emperor Francis Joseph's army in this region is declared to be in full retreat in a mountain pass deep in snow, while a violent snowstorm rages, and the Russian cavalry is attacking on the flank and rear.

By forcing this pass the Russians gain control of some of the most valuable oil fields in the Austrian empire and thus shut off another of the sources of fuel supplies which the Austro-German armies are said to so much need. This, however, has only been part of the Russian attack.

RUSSIANS HOLD LINES ALONG WHOLE FRONT

While forcing back the Turks and Austrians, the Russian troops are holding the line of the Masurian lakes in East Prussia and fighting strenuously to withstand the German offensive in North Poland, are advancing toward Cracow and have crossed Bukowina, which is now virtually in their possession.

In North Poland, where the Russians are confronted with the most serious task, the weather is proving a useful ally. The Germans are trying to all accounts, are making only slow progress with their offensive operations while the Russians, an unofficial dispatch received from Berlin by way of Copenhagen says are advancing toward Cracow and southern Silesia.

Military men look for bigger events between the lower Vistula and the East Prussian frontier. The Russians are in possession of the greater part of the intervening territory, and, unless engaged when the river freezes, would fall on the German flank to the south of the river. It is believed here, therefore, that the Germans are planning a movement from Thorn and East Prussia in an effort to prevent this action, and, as the fighting would take place in the open it would afford a contrast to the trench warfare which prevails along the rest of the front.

SEVERE FIGHTING ON EXTREME WINGS IN WEST

Except at the two extreme wings on the Belgian coast and in Upper Alsace, where the allies have gained some ground, the fighting on the western front has been done by sappers, miners and artillery. From the coast to the Swiss border, the troops either have been engaged in shelling the opposite trenches or trying to sap and mine them. Only at isolated points has the infantry been given its opportunity. A few hundred yards have been gained by the allies among the dunes of Flanders, despite the unfavorable weather.

Great interest attaches to the operations of the French in Upper Alsace. The capture of Steinbach was accomplished after almost superhuman effort, as the Germans had strongly intrenched themselves. Now the French are attempting to force their way through to Cernay (Sennheim), the possession of which would open the door to Muelhausen, which the French occupied for a short time at the beginning of the war.

One of the lessons the war has taught Russia is that the port of Archangel the only large seaport on

DEFENSE AGITATION LEADS TO DECISION FOR PREPAREDNESS

Important Conference Is Held at Home of Secretary Garrison

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Military preparedness of the United States was the subject of an administration conference tonight at the home of Secretary of War Garrison. Every phase of the army and navy situation, with particular reference to appropriations for the coming year and a general policy to be followed, was discussed until midnight. Cabinet officers and leaders in congress, who participated, declared no definite conclusions had been reached.

Attending the conference were Secretary Garrison, Secretary Daniels, Senators Chamberlain and Tillman, chairmen respectively, of the senate military and naval affairs committees, Representatives Hay and Padgett, chairmen, respectively, of the house military and naval affairs committees, Representative Sherley, chairman of the house subcommittee on fortifications, and Representative Underwood, the majority leader of the house.

One of the chief purposes of the conference was to devise plans for cooperative action between the executive and legislative departments on military and naval affairs in making appropriations and carrying out a general program for increasing the efficiency of the military arm of the government.

Declare for Preparedness.

On leaving the conference one of the participants said while no definite plan of procedure had been agreed upon every one present had conceded that every possible effort should be exerted to congress to bring the army and navy up to the highest standard of efficiency that could be produced with the resources available.

"The chief subject of consideration," said Senator Tillman, "was how to do the greatest good for the army and navy without encroaching a financial deficit."

Senator Chamberlain said the general discussion had dealt principally with the financial condition of the government. He said there had been no proposal for radical or extraordinary changes in the military or naval forces and that he condition of both was considered generally satisfactory.

Nothing definite," said Senator Chamberlain, "was either discussed or decided upon. It is understood however, that he bills affecting the naval establishment, which I have introduced, will be pressed in the senate."

These bills include measures to increase the army by 25,000 men and 1,000 officers, and to increase the coast artillery corps by 8,000 men.

THREE COLORADOANS LOST IN MEXICO

DENVER, Jan. 5.—State and Missouri officials have instituted an investigation regarding the fate of three Colorado men who recently went to Mexico, it was announced today. The missing men, James A. Shinn, former state game warden, Harry S. Balsinger, state representative-elect from Gilpin county, and Thomas Mansfield, a Denver mining engineer, started seven weeks ago for Almas, Sonora, to look over mining property. Nothing has been heard of them and efforts to communicate with Almas have been unsuccessful.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 4.—New trials were granted Rev. A. V. Gammage of Kansas City and C. H. Hubbard of Pittsburg, Kan., two of the men recently convicted here of using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of Florida everglades lands by the Chambers Land company.

Russell of Miami, Fla., was granted a new trial on 11 of the 12 counts on which he was convicted, but a new trial was refused on the twelfth. These decisions were announced in the federal court here tonight at the conclusion of the hearings.

Testimony of the trial jurors, who were summoned as witnesses at the hearings, showed that a former deputy United States marshal had conversed with them while they were considering their verdict.

"DIGGING IN" ON THE FIRING LINE

Furnishing Trenches for War Homes

From the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Lying flat on the ground, alternately digging with his bayonet blade and scooping out the loosened earth with the top of his meat tin, a soldier hastily makes at his side a shallow trench that extends from the head to the knees, placing each little scoopful as he digs it in a pile at his head. Every movement is made with the utmost caution, for bullets are whistling past only a few inches above his head and the raising of any part of his body would mean almost certain death. When this shallow trench is finished the soldier cautiously rolls into it. Under this slight cover he then begins to dig another and deeper trench at his side, but one that is long enough this time to take his entire body. If he lives to complete the task he has made what is known as a "lying-down" trench. He has made a cover that protects him from rifle fire but not from shrapnel or the flying fragments of bursting shells.

This is not an individual instance but a typical case. It is one phase of the "digging-in" process that comprises one of the biggest features of the biggest war the world has ever known. When a column of soldiers has advanced until it can advance no farther and the men are ordered to hold their exposed position, they dig themselves in in this fashion. Perhaps they are compelled to remain where they are for a retreat over exposed ground is often as dangerous as an advance. As soon as night comes intrenching tools are brought forward, and the little trenches made under fire are enlarged, connected and deepened until they are continuous and furnish cover in which men may stand and move about safe from rifle fire, but always in danger from shell fire and shrapnel. In this shelter that the soldier has dug for himself he may remain for weeks, or the trench may be abandoned in a few minutes for a new position for an advance or a retreat. In this type of modern warfare, infantry ships, running kept [illegible] the first thing in [illegible] opportunity advance has been stopped [illegible] itself.

Importance of Intrenchments.

This war is, therefore, primarily one of their intrenchments. Much had been written before the war about field intrenchments and their advantages in modern warfare. But a battle line 300 miles long, extending from the North sea through northern France into Alsace, consisting of practically continuous lines of intrenchments so securely held that neither side could make any material advance in weeks, is a thing so big that it had apparently never been dreamed of. Along this battlefield the country is cut up, not by two parallel lines of intrenchments alone, but by numerous trenches, some of which have been occupied repeatedly by first one army and then the other as the fortune of battle wavered along the battle line. There are new and half-finished trenches, trenches with shrapnel-proof shelters and with zigzag excavated approaches from the rear, abandoned trenches and trenches that have been wrecked by artillery fire. So carefully are the trenches and their occupants concealed that the battlefield would have, much of the time, the appearance of a deserted country, if it were not for the bursting shells and shrapnel. Back of the firing line, on both sides of the great conflict, men have been busy for weeks constructing trenches for the army to fall back on in case of retreat. Since this work is not done under fire, these trenches are carefully made on selected ground, often motordrawn plows being used to break ground for them.

Ditch Homes Named.

Since men not only fight in the trenches, but must often eat and sleep in them, the cave shelters have become one of the common features of the intrenchments on both sides of the battlefield, and, crude as they are, they furnish the one homelike touch of the war. Here are found dishes, simple cooking utensils, and the ever-present coffee or teapot, the latter being indispensable for the English soldier. In spite of the discomforts and dangers of the trenches, human nature, with its philosophy and a grim sort of humor, asserts itself. Much ingenuity has been expended in naming the shelters scattered along the trenches, and it is not an uncommon thing to see a crude sign above one of the caves bearing some such name as "Hotel Cecil," "Ritz Hotel," "Billet Doux Hotel," or "Rue Dormir."

DENVER, Jan. 4.—The Colorado Good Roads association will meet here on January 20 and 21. The Colorado branch of the Lincoln Highway association will meet at the same time.

MISS GENEVIEVE CLARK

Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Champ Clark of the house of representatives, who is the best-known young woman in Washington, has announced her engagement. She will wed James M. Thompson, publisher of the New Orleans Item. The ceremony will take place some time in the spring of early summer at her father's home at Bowling Green, Mo. Though she is only 19 now, she came into national notice at the Baltimore convention in 1912, when she led the cheering for her father when he was named in the convention. Miss Clark takes considerable interest in politics, and has become acquainted with most of the leaders in Washington. Some of them talk politics with her and her knowledge of the game has been commented on very often.

SHIP BILL ONLY WAY TO FIGHT SHIPPING TRUST

Representative Alexander Says Measure Is Magna Charta of Maritime Trade

FEW MEN CONTROL THE SEA

Congressman Arraigns Interests Fighting Pending Legislation in Congress

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—"The Magna Charta of American shipping, proclaiming freedom from the feudal barons of maritime commerce," was the characterization which Representative Alexander, chairman of the house marine committee, applied to the administration ship purchase bill in a speech here tonight before the Boston chamber of commerce.

"To sum up the entire situation," he said, "an investigation will prove that over 90 per cent of the coastwise and practically the entire American foreign shipping is allied through interlocking directorates with the National City bank, United States Trust company, National Bank of Commerce and Guaranty Trust company, all of which have for their fountain head the Rockefeller-Morgan-Perkins interests.

"It is against this aggregation that the administration, representing the American people, finds itself. The shipping interests realize that the entrance of the government into the field will break the chain by which they have the independents shut out. Government owned vessels are what they most fear, for it means a breakwater—a bunker—a protection for the independent who now dares, at his peril, to invest a dollar in shipping against the power of the organization, but who would be willing to invest if fair play was allowed.

Why Eastern Papers Protest.

"It is said the same interests own, or are interested in, several of the big eastern newspapers. The [illegible] thus kept [illegible] silenced and others are affected by revenues of steamship advertising. Therefore, you find a stalwart opposition by the eastern newspapers to the government policy.

"The cry of paternalism has been raised, the criticism of government ownership has been advanced and several of the large news and financial papers of the eastern cities appear daily with editorials denouncing the administration's policy. These papers, being the recipients of large incomes from advertising contracts with the steamship companies, are naturally opposed to a plan inimical to the interests of their customers. This fact may affect their vision. The greatest opposing power, however, to the policy of the government, is the steamship companies themselves.

"An investigation of the shipping questions and the interests that are involved reveals some very interesting facts. In the report of the proceedings of the committees on the investigation of shipping combinations, the methods of the shipping interests are fully set forth.

Companies Pool Interests.

"It is shown that a regular system of agreements and pools prevail against which the independent shipper has no chance to live. The committee, in its recommendation, states: 'The committee believes that the disadvantages and abuses connected with steamship agreements and conferences as now conducted are significant and that very few of the principal routes on our entire Atlantic and gulf coasts are served by more than one regular steamship line.'

"The railroad-controlled lines referred to in the report of the committees are the Southern Pacific, or Morgan line, the Old Dominion Steamship company and the Ocean Steamship company or Savannah line. These, with the eastern steamship company and the Atlantic Gulf and West Indian steamship lines, constitute practically the entire coastwise shipping for the DENVER, Jan. 5.—Members of the Republican majority of both branches of the Twenty-fifth general assembly, which convenes tomorrow, agreed today upon practically all patronage matters. But one or two committee chairmanships were undecided when the caucus adjourned late today.

The election of Philip B. Stewart of Colorado Springs as speaker of the house and Leroy J. Williams as president pro tem of the senate seems certain.

CARRANZA TROOPS CAPTURE PUEBLA

[illegible],000 Prisoners and 40 Other Successes Are Reported

State Historical and Natural History Society

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 5.—Puebla, capital of the state of Puebla, which was evacuated a month ago by the troops of Gen. Venustiano Carranza, was retaken today after a campaign which began with the capture of Tepeaca, a short distance to the southeast of Puebla, six days ago.

The fall of Puebla came after six hours of what is described as having been the most furious bombardment to which any Mexican force has yet been subjected.

General Obregon, commanding the Carranza troops, worked into a position about the city last night with virtually all his forces, which are reported to have aggregated not less than 10,000 men. He had determined to make the battle as short as possible and throw nearly all his men into action, beginning the fighting early in the morning.

After pounding with 92 cannon the positions of the troops of Generals Villa and Zapata, whose strength is estimated to have been some 15,000 men, the troops of General Obregon advanced under the fire of their opponents' artillery.

Other Towns Taken.

When General Obregon left Vera Cruz he told friends at headquarters that he would be in possession of Puebla in eight days. This time was not up until tonight. Other small towns and villages to the east and southeast of Puebla have been taken since his departure and Obregon had made his headquarters decision base at Apizaco, where the railroad from Puebla joins the main line of the Mexican railway. Last night he moved this force southward and another force toward the west, cutting both railroads over which the Villa and Zapata forces might proceed toward Mexico City.

Generals Alvarado and Mallen were in charge of the forces moving from the east and had under their direction most of the cannon. That numerous cannon of high grade and an abundance of ammunition were in Obregon's possession was known here but that he intended to employ so many pieces in one action came as a surprise. The topography about Puebla avails itself easily to a force which can utilize the heights above the city with artillery and Obregon's chief effort was to get possession of the hills. A few guns were mounted to the west of the city, but most of the bombardment was left to Alvarado and Mallen, who gained the hills to the east after driving the Villa and Zapata men from the ancient forts on their crests.

Losses Are Heavy.

How many of the Villa and Zapata troops escaped is not known but early reports of the fighting indicate that the greater part of them either were killed or made prisoners. From these reports it would seem that in few of the battles that have occurred in Mexico has the slaughter been so swift and so great.

The hardest part of the action was fought outside the city proper. The dead and wounded are said to cover the ground at some places and to be strewn plentifully across a field whose diameter from west to east is some 12 miles. The bombardment from the 92 cannon was almost incessant, according to the official report.

Communication with Puebla was not established until tonight. Just who was in command of the capital forces is not yet known, but their leaders are reported to have been Andrew Almazan and Eufemio Zapata, a brother of Emiliano.

Gutierrez Wants Peace.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Gutierrez government in Mexico in a note to the state department, transmitted today by the Brazilian minister, announced that orders had been sent to General Maytorena, at Naco, "to make no attack and to withdraw his forces from the border," pending closer study of the situation, "in its military and political aspect."

The note was dated January 4 and was signed by Ortiz Rodriguez, the Gutierrez acting secretary for foreign affairs. It was as follows:

"The government of Mexico, showing the best intention of solving the Naco case in a satisfactory manner, today issued orders by wire to Maytorena to make no attack and to withdraw his forces from the border. As, for the time being, the situation is so much relieved, the foreign office at Mexico City will take the time necessary for the purpose of making a study of the case in its military and political aspects, with the view of giving its final decision. This course will be followed because of the fact that the acting secretary for foreign affairs is very much occupied with the work of reorganizing the office force and in giving attention to other important affairs of an international character."

UNIONISTS MUST PAY DAMAGES TO DANBURY HATTERS

Supreme Court Decision Ends Case Hanging Fire for Past 11 Years

HAVE TO PAY $252,130.09

200 Union Men Held Liable for Boycott Against the Hat Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Ending 11 years of litigation, the supreme court today held that some 200 Connecticut labor union members must pay $252,130.09 damages under the Sherman anti-trust law for a nationwide boycott of D. E. Loewe & Co., Danbury, Conn., hat manufacturers, who refused to unionize their shops. The bank accounts and homes of many of the men already are under attachment to pay the judgment and the next step probably will be foreclosure.

Leading lawyers of congress disagree today on whether this decision meant that union workmen would be liable in the future for damages on account of boycotts. Some hold that the Clayton antitrust law, passed last year after this suit had been tried, would make another such prosecution impossible.

It was in the Danbury hatters' case that the supreme court decided in 1908 that labor unions were subject to the terms of the Sherman antitrust law and sent the suit back to the New York federal courts for trial. The judgment, the largest ever before the court under the Sherman law, as well as the vigorous defense of the union men attracted widespread attention to the litigation.

Decision Unanimous.

Justice Holmes announced the court's unanimous opinion today. His discussion of the law involved was brief. He said the ground for discussion under the Sherman law had been cut away by the 1908 decision, to a large extent, and narrowed further by the decision in the eastern states retail lumber dealers' case of last year to the effect that the circulation of a list of "unfair dealers" with the intention to put the ban upon these dealers, among a body of possible consumers, combined with a view of joint action.

SELF-DEFENSE PLEA OF LA VETA STRIKERS

May Take Three Weeks to Get Jury in Pueblo Hearing

PUEBLO, Jan. 5.—That self-defense is to be the plea of the eight striking miners charged with the murder of three mine guards and a chauffeur at La Veta, November 8, 1913, became apparent today from the questions put by Attorney John A. Martin for the defense in examining veniremen.

Selecting jurymen was pursued without a break all day. Seventeen were questioned as to their qualifications; four were excused because they declared they had fixed opinions as to guilt or innocence of the defendants, and two were excused on peremptory challenge, one by each side. At the rate the examination was conducted, it will take three weeks to get a jury should each side exercise his full number of peremptory challenges. There are eight defendants and the law allows 15 challenges for each man, making 120, and an equal number to the prosecution. However, it is not likely that the full number of challenges will be used, for the majority of those questioned today declared they knew nothing of the La Veta killings and held no prejudice one way or the other.

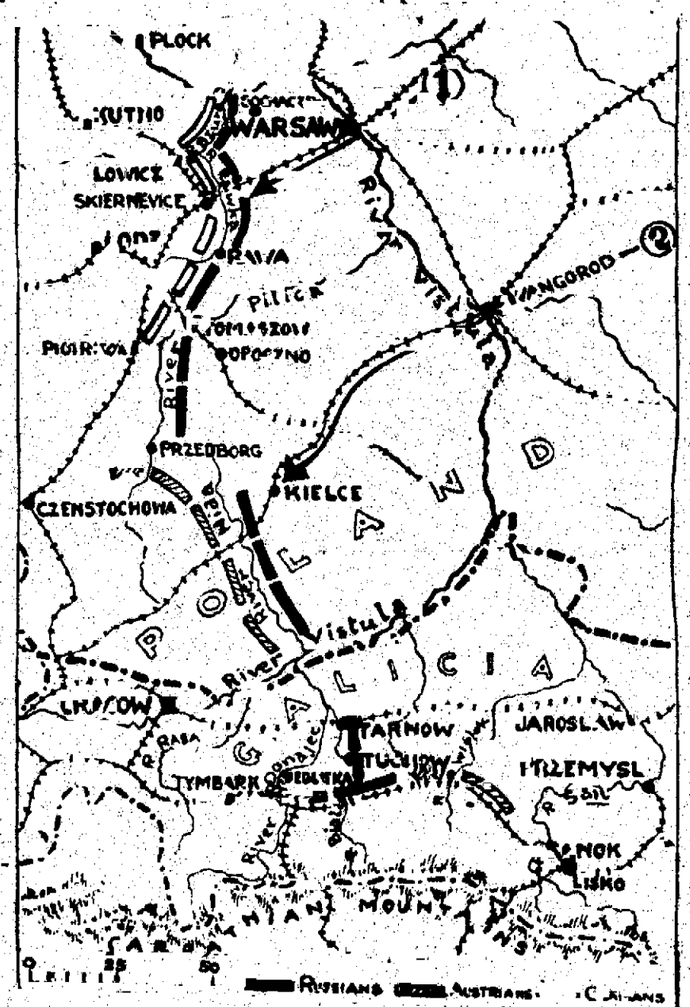

Five of the 17 men examined either now belong or have had membership in labor unions. Two of these declared their prejudices would prevent them from making fair and impartial jurors and they were excused.

DEMOCRATS WORRIED OVER LEGISLATIVE PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Continued belligerency on the part of Republican senators toward the government ship purchase bill has begun to worry administration leaders, who failed today to get the measure before the senate, owing to monopolization of all the time with speeches and appropriation affairs.

Inasmuch as but two months remain in the life of the Sixty-third congress, and the senate has not yet passed any of the big supply bills, the reiterated determination of the minority to fight the ship bill to the last ditch, and to prevent its consideration whenever possible, has aroused the fears that the administrative legislative program is in danger.

MAP SHOWING EASTERN FIELD OF OPERATIONS

Living Pictures Rehearse and Await Curtain

Tonight's Production Promises Big Surprise

By "THE SUBSTITUTE"

"The Critic" is indisposed—which only goes to show how easy it is for "The Critic." Ordinary scribes are not permitted to be indisposed, but let the former decide it is more pleasant to sit at the club than to pound a typewriter, and he tells the boy to "call the office and say that The Critic is indisposed and will not be there this evening." In such cases someone else is called. Why I'm always the one chosen is beyond understanding, unless it is that the city ed is reasonably certain that I'm a safe substitute. Leastwise, the order last night was simple, "Fill up the space—if you can."

It is fortunate that no added, "if you can," though I must admit that on other occasions it sort o' grates on my nerves. This time, however, I concede The Critic's superior wisdom and ability to spread his thoughts smoothly over the keyboard. What the writer knows about Smart Society and tableaux vivants (that's what "The Critic" calls the living pictures) is just what I've read in The Gazette the last few days. As for works of art—society is to make them live at the Opera house tonight, you know—even if they have not been explained very clearly. I might have learned a lot had I been at the Opera house yesterday afternoon during dress rehearsal.

Rehearsal Goes Without a Hitch.

However, it was learned from most excellent authority (one of the Opera house stage crew) that things popped around there in a most unexpected manner. Fact is that Mr. Nickerson, who is directing the production, or productions, whichever it is, didn't have to shout orders so much as once—something most unusual. And Mr. Julian Story, too, was more than pleased. Considering that Mr. Story is one of our greatest artists, this means more than a little bit.

The "pictures" were all painted up by Mr. and Mrs. George Gebhart of the Pikes Peak Films company, who volunteered their services for this most important part of the affair, until they looked like—now "The Critic" would know what phrase to use, but I don't. Anyway, you'll know what I mean when I repeat the words of my inside man: "When they (the "pictures") came in they looked like a million dollars, but when they got all dressed up and painted and posed under those special 'spots' they were S-O-M-E pictures."

Watch "Vogue" Subjects.

As for the pictures to be posed—but there's a program following, so it's almost useless to go on and tell about them, especially when I don't know any more than you do. But here's my advice—watch those "Vogue" numbers. "Swinging" and "Fishing" and "A Bridesmaid." The Critic" enthused pretty muchly over them so they must be stunning. From what I've heard they are. Then there are others. "The Lady With the Fan," by Faivre, posed by Mrs. Eric A. Swenson, and "A Dancing Girl From Bagdad," by Miss Camilla Lippincott, and "Madame Mole-Raymond," by Le Brun, posed by Miss Eleanor Anderson. But I'd have to repeat the entire program to include all the stunners. The works selected are so unusually beautiful, and the

GOETHALS PRAISES CANAL'S BIG GUNS

Says They Are Powerful Enough to Repel Attack by Any Vessel Afloat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Fortifications of the Panama canal were described as satisfactory today by Colonel Goethals, governor of the Canal Zone, before a house appropriations subcommittee.

The colonel told how the great guns mounted at the entrances to the waterway measured up to the heaviest weapons that could be brought to bear by any foreign war craft afloat, of carefully planned mine fields and of mammoth searchlights capable of sweeping the entire range of gunfire.

With the committee, Colonel Goethals went over the estimates aggregating $18,060,000 needed for completing and maintaining fortifications and constructing public works in the Canal Zone during the next fiscal year. He explained the situation caused by recent landslides into the canal, telling the committee that the problem had proved to be much more serious than was first supposed. On the original estimates, he said, the engineers expected to have to remove 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth but already 1,500,000 had been removed without clearing the channel. The work had been retarded, he added, by constant interruptions to pass vessels through the canal.

Brigadier General Crozier, chief of the ordnance bureau, and Brigadier General Weaver, chief of coast artillery, gave the committee some details concerning the canal fortifications. It was explained that the 14-inch guns of the main batteries were being bored out to enlarge their powder chambers and give them a range as effective as the 16-inch guns carried by some foreign warships. Originally, the committee was told, the powder chambers had been bored to less than their maximum capacity in order to increase the life of the guns.

When these changes are completed the guns are expected to be more effective than any carried by ships because of the advantage in fixed mounts ashore.

Colonel Goethals urged retention of an item of $40,000 for two lighthouses in Panama bay.

RUSSIANS SMASH TURKS IN CAUCASUS; CAPTURE A WHOLE ARMY CORPS

Crash Through Austrian Lines in Carpathians Toward Plains of Hungary

Czar's Troops Holding Lines From Baltic to Black Seas; Severe Fighting in Progress at Extreme Wings of Western Battle Front; French Report Gains From Germans

LONDON, Jan. 6 (Wednesday).—A wireless dispatch received here from Berlin gives a report received in the German capital from Athens that the Dardanelles fortresses have commenced a bombardment of the blockading Anglo-French fleets and that one torpedo boat has been slightly damaged.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Two of the three Turkish columns which last week invaded the Russian Caucasus have met with disaster and the troops not killed or captured are in disorderly retreat, pursued by the Russians. The column which took Ardahan two days ago has been driven out of that town, according to the Petrograd official dispatches, and is almost surrounded by the Russians, who hold the main roads.

Another column, which crossed the frontier near Sari Kamysh, on the road to Kars, has suffered an even worse defeat, one of the two army corps which composed it being captured in its entirety.

The Russians also report another victory over the Austrians in the Ussok pass of the Carpathians. Emperor Francis Joseph's army in this region is declared to be in full retreat in a mountain pass deep in snow, while a violent snowstorm rages, and the Russian cavalry is attacking on the flank and rear.

By forcing this pass the Russians gain control of some of the most valuable oil fields in the Austrian empire and thus shut off another of the sources of fuel supplies which the Austro-German armies are said to so much need. This, however, has only been part of the Russian attack.

RUSSIANS HOLD LINES ALONG WHOLE FRONT

While forcing back the Turks and Austrians, the Russian troops are holding the line of the Mazurian lakes in East Prussia, are fighting strongly to withstand the German advance in North Poland, are advancing toward Cracow and have crossed Bukowina, which is now virtually in their possession.

In North Poland, where the Russians are confronted with the most serious task, the weather is proving a useful ally. The Germans, according to all accounts, are making only slow progress with their offensive operations, while the Russians, an unofficial dispatch received from Berlin by way of Copenhagen says, are advancing toward Cracow and southern Silesia.

Military men look for bigger events between the lower Vistula and the East Prussian frontier. The Russians are in possession of the greater part of the intervening territory, and, unless engaged when the river freezes, would fall on the German flank to the south of the river. It is believed here, therefore, that the Germans are planning a movement from Thorn and East Prussia, in an effort to prevent this action, and, as the fighting would take place in the open, it would afford a contrast to the trench warfare which prevails along the rest of the front.

SEVERE FIGHTING ON EXTREME WINGS IN WEST

Except at the two extreme wings on the Belgian coast and in Upper Alsace, where the allies have gained some ground, the fighting on the western front has been done by suppers, miners and artillery. From the coast to the Swiss border, the troops either have been engaged in shelling the opposite trenches or trying to sap and mine them. Only at isolated points has the infantry been given its opportunity. A few hundred yards have been gained by the allies among the dunes of Flanders, despite the unfavorable weather.

Great interest attaches to the operations of the French in Upper Alsace. The capture of Steinbach was accomplished after almost superhuman effort, as the Germans had strongly intrenched themselves. Now the French are attempting to force their way through to Cernay (Sennheim), the possession of which would open the door to Muelhausen, which the French occupied for a short time at the beginning of the war.

"One of the lessons the war has taught Russia is that the port of Archangel, the only large seaport on

DEFENSE AGITATION LEADS TO DECISION FOR PREPAREDNESS

Important Conference Is Held at Home of Secretary Garrison

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Military preparedness of the United States was the subject of an administration conference tonight at the home of Secretary of War Garrison. Every phase of the army and navy situation, with particular reference to appropriations for the coming year and a general policy to be followed, was discussed until midnight. Cabinet officers and leaders in congress, who participated, declared no definite conclusions had been reached.

Attending the conference were Secretary Garrison, Secretary Daniels, Senators Chamberlain and Tillman, chairmen, respectively, of the senate military and naval affairs committees; Representatives Hay and Padgett, chairmen, respectively, of the house military and naval affairs committees; Representative Sherley, chairman of the house subcommittee on fortifications, and Representative Underwood, the majority leader of the house.

One of the chief purposes of the conference was to devise plans for cooperative action between the executive and legislative departments on military and naval affairs in making appropriations and carrying out a general program for increasing the efficiency of the military arm of the government.

Declare for Preparedness.

On leaving the conference, one of the participants said while no definite plan of procedure had been agreed upon, every one present had conceded that every possible effort should be exerted in congress to bring the army and navy up to the highest standard of efficiency that could be produced with the resources available.

"The chief subject of consideration," said Senator Tillman, "was how to do the greatest good for the army and navy without embarrassing the financial outlook."

Senator Chamberlain said the general discussion had dealt principally with the financial condition of the government. He said there had been no proposal for radical or extraordinary changes in the military or naval forces, and that the condition of both was considered generally satisfactory.

"Nothing definite," said Senator Chamberlain, "was either discussed or decided upon. It is understood, however, that the bills affecting the naval establishment, which I have introduced, will be pressed in the senate."

These bills include measures to increase the army by 25,000 men and 1,000 officers, and to increase the coast artillery corps by 5,000 men.

London Preacher Urges Pope Call World Peace Meet

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(Wednesday.)—The Rev. Reginald J. Campbell, one of the most prominent Congregationalists in London and minister of the City temple, suggests, with an object of putting an end to the war, that a general council of the world's Christian churches should be summoned.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell says there is only one person, namely, the pope, who could, with any chance of success, call such a conference. There is precedent for this, he says, in the fact that Protestants were summoned to the council of Trent, "and who knows," he adds, "but that if they had accepted the invitation the scandal of a divided Christendom might have been averted."

The Rev. Mr. Campbell has been famous for some time because of his somewhat unorthodox views.

THREE COLORADOANS LOST IN MEXICO

DENVER, Jan. 5.—State and Masonic officials have instituted an investigation regarding the fate of three Colorado men who recently went to Mexico, it was announced today. The missing men are James A. Shipp, former state game warden; Henry C. Balsinger, state representative-elect from Gilpin county, and Thomas Mansfield, a Denver mining engineer, started seven weeks ago for Almas, Sonora, to look over mining properties. Nothing has been heard of them and efforts to communicate with Almas have been unsuccessful.

RUSSIANS SMASH TURKS IN CAUCASUS; CAPTURE A WHOLE ARMY CORPS

U.S. HAS RIGHT TO SHIP WAR SUPPLIES

Flood Says Germany Does Not Expect Government to Stop Exportation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The German government, according to statements today before the house foreign affairs committee, does not expect legislation in this country to prevent the exportation of arms and ammunition to the European belligerents.

Chairman Flood of the committee said he understood that the German government, through its foreign office, had taken this position, and Representative Metz of New York told the committee he recently had talked with "high authorities" in Berlin who held that the United States was within its rights under international law in permitting trade in war supplies with the belligerents.

Chairman Flood made his statement to [illegible] who at a [illegible] was making a [illegible] for his resolution to stop exports.

"Suppose," he asked Bartholdt, "that you understood that the German government through the German foreign office, had said that it did not expect this government to pass the legislation. Would you support it?"

Representative Bartholdt asserted that he knew nothing of the attitude of the German government and that he and his associates opposed the exportation of arms on the grounds of "international immorality."

Get Dumdums in U. S.

Chairman Flood repeated the statement in his question and added:

"I said that they realize and so state that they do not expect this government to pass this legislation."

"The state department," said Chairman Flood to Representative Bartholdt, "has investigated your charge that dumdum bullets were being shipped from this country to the allies. They have found that not more than 700 of these bullets have left the country and that none of them would fit modern military service rifles."

Representative Bartholdt said he had heard that the neutrality of the United States has been violated by the shipments of Canadian troops over American territory in Maine on their way to the war zone.

"I have never heard of that," said Chairman Flood.

Representative Bartholdt said that he knew of the incident only as a matter of gossip.

"The shipment of war supplies to belligerent nations," said Chairman Flood, "has been recognized for 100 years as a right of our citizens by the law of nations. When this war began that right was recognized. England, through her foresight and the expenditure of her treasure, had gained control of the seas. It would be to her disadvantage to change this situation now. Would it not be an unneutral act?"

Representative Bartholdt said that only "an equality to all could morally justify the exercise of the right to ship arms to belligerents."

"Without that moral background," he said, "the right should not be exercised. Now we are actually waging war on Germany and Austria and the guns and bullets we ship are killing the kinsmen of 25,000,000 Americans."

CONDITIONS IN SERVIA AS BAD AS IN BELGIUM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Conditions in the devastated portions of Servia are as distressing and the misery as great as in Belgium, according to a letter received at the Red Cross headquarters here today from Madame Grouitch, wife of the undersecretary for foreign affairs of Servia.

Russian Statement

PETROGRAD, Jan. 5.—It is officially announced that the Russian troops have gained a decisive victory at Sari Kamysh. The entire Ninth army corps of the Turks was captured.

The following report received from the Russian headquarters in the Caucasus was made public tonight:

"Last night our troops won a complete victory over the Turks at Sari Kamysh. We have beaten two Turkish army corps and made the entire Ninth Turkish army corps, including its commander and three division commanders prisoners.

"Small bodies of Turkish troops which succeeded in escaping were vigorously pursued and destroyed.

"We continue pursuit of the other parts of the Turkish forces which are in full retreat.

"The Turks displayed great bravery when their position was seriously threatened and made frequent desperate bayonet sorties. When they were compelled to vacate they made valiant but futile efforts to cover their retreat by a rear guard action, even the wounded continuing firing from the ground when they were struck down.

"According to a telegram from Tiflis, the persistency with which the Turks pressed their attack in the Sari Kamysh district was to enable their troops in the Ardahan region to retire without heavy losses. Their operations were conducted under tremendous difficulties. They lacked proper equipment and had no transport trains. Everything had to be carried on the backs of soldiers or of civilians commandeered for the purpose. Most of the trophies of war captured by the Russians were of German make.

"Northward of Kars the Turkish force at Ardahan also is threatened with disaster. The enemy in his disorderly flight had been almost surrounded with Russians, who held the main roads. The Turks are striving frantically to find an outlet, but have to face passes deep in snow. The Russians have attacked Ardahan on two sides; their artillery a prominent part."

French Statement

PARIS, Jan. 5.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"Last night our troops took possession of a quarry situated at the crossing of the road from Rouvrois to St. Mihiel and that from Maizey to St. Mihiel, and also some neighboring trenches.

"There is no other operation to report. The weather continues to be very bad with incessant rains.

"Grand Duke Nicholas has addressed to General Joffre the following telegram: 'I hasten to inform you of the joyful news that the army of the Caucasus, notwithstanding that its forces have been reduced to a minimum with a view not to weaken the army in the principal theater of war, has won two decisive victories on December 31 and 22 (January 3 and 4 modern calendar) against the Turkish forces, superior in number, at Ardahan against the First corps and at Sari Kamysh against the Ninth and Tenth Turkish corps. The entire Ninth corps has capitulated, the Tenth corps is making every effort to withdraw but is being pursued in our troops.'

"General Joffre has sent the following reply:

"I pray your imperial highness to accept my warm felicitations for the great victory won by the army of the Caucasus. By their constant and uninterrupted effort in all the theaters of operations, the armies of the allies are preparing the definite victories of the future."

ENGLAND TO REJECT AMERICAN PROPOSAL

Certification of Cargoes Is Not Satisfactory, Says Foreign Office

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Although the foreign office regards with high favor the American government's plan of certifying cargoes loaded under the direction of officials of the treasury department and destined for European ports, it was said today that England cannot accept such certification as an absolute guaranty of the nature of the cargo in case any cause for suspicion arises after a vessel leaves America.

In other words, the right of search cannot be waived because of the possibility of shifting cargoes at sea and of the impossibility of having the treasury officer who issues the certificate accompany the ship to her destination to guard against smugglers who may carry copper or other contraband on small ships to be transferred at sea.

The waiving of the right to search ships bearing contraband cargoes, in the opinion of several prominent officers, would be an invitation for smugglers to ply their trade, whereas the retention of the right would tend to prevent dishonesty.

This position is precisely the same as that taken by the foreign office concerning the certification of manifests of American cargoes by British consuls at American ports.

Nations Revising Lists.

The government is constantly in communication with representatives of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Holland. It is reported that all of these nations are taking steps to revise their lists of prohibited exports so that they will correspond with the British contraband list, thus making possible a resumption of shipping to neutral European countries from America without delays or the danger of seizure.

A decidedly favorable impression has been produced here by the American certification plan. British officials regard it as a further manifestation of the desire of the American government to hasten a satisfactory settlement of the differences concerning the delay and seizure of American cargoes.

Owing to the failure of the London newspapers to discuss the preliminary negotiations between Ambassador Page and Foreign Secretary Grey, extending over several weeks before the American note was presented, the English public was not well advised concerning the differences which grew up. Even now the opinion is quite general, notwithstanding the publication of the American note, that President Wilson denies England's right of search. Consequently, much of the shock occasioned by the presentation of the American note was due to misapprehension which, however, is disappearing slowly on account of the calm and friendly attitude of the government.

Atlantic seaboard. It is a remarkable fact that the interests allied in the ownership and control of all of these coastwise lines are also associated in the foreign American shipping.

Financial Affiliations.

Taking the companies in the order above named, we find that in the Southern Pacific, Henry W. DeForest, a prominent director, served on the board of the National Bank of Commerce with Henry P. Davidson, with J. P. Morgan & Co. with Frank A. Vanderlip and William Rockefeller of the National City bank, L. F. Loree, another director, is on the board of the Seaboard line railroad, and part owner of the Old Dominion line; Ogden Mills, another director, is associated with the Pacific Mail Steamship company, and he, with Cornelius Bliss, another director, are on the board of the United States Trust company of New York, on which board the same interests are found dominant.

The Old Dominion Steamship company is controlled by the Atlantic Coastline, Seaboard Airline, Southern, Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western railroads. The same interests appear here. Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank appears on the boards of two of the railroads, Charles Steele, member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, Victor Morawitz, a prominent member of the board of the National Bank of Commerce, and others of the same interests are found on the boards of these railroads. The Merchants & Miners Transportation company was until recently owned by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, which, from recent investigations by the interstate commerce commission and the department of justice, it was disclosed, was controlled by J. P. Morgan & Co. The government required the railroad to sell the Merchants & Miners interests. The new owners, however, belong to the same aggregation. The chairman of the board of directors of the Merchants & Miners is on the board of the Atlantic Coastline of which J. P. Morgan & Co. are the fiscal agents, and others have similar affiliations. The Ocean Steamship company (the Savannah line) is owned by the Central of Georgia railroad. On its board are found gentlemen who are interested in New York banking houses with the Morgans and Rockefellers.

Holding Companies.

The Eastern Steamship company is a holding company which controls and operates 21 different steamship lines of the New England coast, and controls practically the entire trade of that region. According to Moody's manual, on June 30, 1913, the New England Navigation company owns two and a half million dollars in the stock of this company. J. P. Morgan is a director of the New England Navigation company. The Eastern Steamship company is understood to be financed and largely controlled by Hayden, Stone & Co. of Boston and New York. C. L. Stone and J. W. Hayden of that firm are on its board of directors. The same firm is understood to control the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Steamship lines, of which company C. L. Stone is vice president and H. R. Mallory, a member of the board of directors of the Eastern Steamship company, is president. This company owns the majority of the stock of the Clyde line, the New York and Cuba line, Mallory line and the entire stock of the New York & Porto Rico line and the Texas City Steamship company. Edward J. Berwind, one of the directors of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indian Steamship lines, the holding company for the various subsidiary lines, is also a director of the Guaranty Trust company with Vanderlip and others. Berwind is also the head of a big coal company in New York city, whose business is that of furnishing coal to the various steamship lines."

Declaring the position of the United States as a nation was anomalous, with its $4,250,000,000 of foreign commerce, to carry 92 per cent of which "we are dependent upon the ships of other nations," and with a practical limitation to the shipping of Great Britain, while five of the great maritime nations of Europe are at war, "our right as a neutral nation to trade with belligerents," he said, "is fully recognized by international law and our duties closely defined. I would not relinquish any right as a neutral nation or fail to perform every duty impressed on us as such."

"Great Britain and France have agreed with the United States that cotton shall not be regarded as contraband and the United States is free to ship cotton to any of the belligerents and the proposed ship purchase legislation, according to Mr. Alexander, is to remove the lack of ships and exorbitant freight, "now the obstacles in our way."

Cardinal Mercier Held by Germans for Antagonism

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 5.—A dispatch received by the Tijd from Rosendaal says that Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium and archbishop of Malines, has been arrested by the German authorities and held a prisoner in his palace at Malines under a military guard.

The report, which has not been confirmed, says the cardinal's arrest was the result of a pastoral letter issued by him and read Sunday in the churches throughout Belgium. In this letter the cardinal is said to have referred to the occupation of Belgium as follows:

"This power has no legal authority and consequently you owe it in your heart neither allegiance nor obedience. The only legal authority in Belgium is that appertaining to our king, his government and the representatives of the nation."

Only 25 per cent of the wheat crop in the valley can be harvested.

M'CORMICK RETURNS TO REPUBLICAN FOLD

Politicians Profess to See End of Bull Moosers in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 5.—Politicians here for the opening of the Illinois legislature here tonight witnessed what they termed the death of the Progressive party in Illinois when Medill McCormick, member of the Progressive national committee, and a member of the house, together with H. S. Hicks of Rockford, the only other Progressive in the lower house, entered the Republican house caucus and announced their intention of voting with the Republicans during the session.

McCormick made a speech before the caucus in which he said he "was glad to get back to the party of my fathers." He was interrupted by cheering and violent handclapping.

Nearly every member of the caucus and others construed McCormick's action and statement as the probable end of the Progressive party in Illinois, which was considered one of the strongholds of the party. McCormick is vice chairman of the Progressive national committee.

Mr. McCormick made this statement before the caucus:

"We have accepted your invitation to enter this caucus, because we believe that the assembly cannot be organized and the business of the state cannot be done except through organized political effort.

"We have joined with you in an earnest effort to organize the house without delay, in the interest of the state."

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Caucus programs of the senate and assembly for the organization of the legislature which will convene tomorrow were carried out tonight without a discordant note. Senator Elon R. Brown was named as the Republican candidate for president pro tempore of the upper house and Thaddeus C. Sweet was the party's nominee for speaker of the assembly.

The nominations virtually assure the election of the Republicans.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATORS TO PROBE OHIO STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Federal investigation in the strike between the coal operators and miners of eastern Ohio, which has continued since April 1 last, without prospect of settlement, was ordered today by Secretary of Labor Wilson. Daniel J. Keefe, labor expert and former commissioner general of immigration, and Hywel Davies, a coal operator and former mediator in the Colorado strike, were designated by the secretary to undertake an amicable adjustment of the controversy.

The request for government action was received in a telegram from the Wheeling board of trade.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5.—After deciding that at least some of the mines in the eastern Ohio coal fields, where a strike of 15,000 miners has been on since the first of April last should be operated either by striking miners or nonunion men—the coal operators at their meeting here today delegated to a committee of seven of their number the task of formulating plans for action.

FRUITA TRUSTEES SCORED FOR LOOSE CONDUCT

GRAND JUNCTION, Jan. 5.—Severe censure of the trustees of the town of Fruita for loose conduct of municipal affairs from 1908 to 1912 were contained in the report of the grand jury, submitted here today. The report did not name specific persons, nor cite specific acts, and stated that the statute of limitations prevented the returning of true bills.

Thirteen indictments were returned by the grand jury. All names of defendants were suppressed, but it was believed that the indictments concern minor offenses.

was violative of the Sherman antitrust law.

The justice pointed out that the defendants were some 200 members of both the United Hatters of North America and of the American Federation of Labor. With brief consideration he arrived at the conclusion that the New York federal courts which tried the case were right in holding that a forbidden combination had been proved.

Situation Plain.

"It requires more than the blindness of justice," said Justice Holmes, "not to see that the many branches of the United Hatters and the Federation of Labor, in pursuance of a plan emanating from headquarters, made use of such lists (unfair dealers) and of the primary and secondary boycott in their efforts to subdue the plaintiffs to their demands. The union label was used and a strike of the plaintiff's employes was ordered and carried out to the same end, and the purpose to break up the plaintiff's commerce affected by the quality of the acts."

This left the controversy, he added, narrowed down to the responsibility of the defendants for what was done by the labor organizations. The defendants were laboring men as a rule not employed by Loewe & Co., but living in nearby towns, but a few were national officials of the hatters' union. On the question of responsibility, the justice said:

"The court in substance instructed the jury that if these members paid their dues and continued to delegate authority to their officers unlawfully to interfere with the plaintiffs' interstate commerce in such circumstances that they knew or ought to have known and such officers were warranted in the belief that they were acting in the matters within their delegated authority, then such members were jointly liable and no others. It seems to us that this instruction sufficiently guarded the defendants' rights and that the defendants got all that they were entitled to ask in not being held chargeable with knowledge as matter of law.

Boycott Thought Legal.

"It is a tax on credulity to ask anyone to believe that members of labor unions at that time did not know that the primary and secondary boycott and the use of the 'we don't patronize' or 'unfair' list were means expected to be employed in the effort to unionize shops. Very possibly they were thought to be lawful."

In support of the conclusion that the members knew of the use of these means to unionize shops, the justice referred to the hatters' union by-law for strike and union label agitation funds and cited the provision in the American Federation of Labor constituting for prosecution of "what is called 'legal' boycotts."

"If the words of the documents on their face and without explanation did not authorize what was done," he continued, "the evidence of what was done publicly and habitually showed their meaning and how they were interpreted. The jury could not but find that by the usage of the unions the acts complained of were authorized and authorized without regard to their interference with commerce among the states.

The damages, which under the law were threefold the injury suffered were approved over the objection that some of them accrued since the action began.

Since the English aviators' raid, work has begun on a new Zeppelin which it now takes 20 days to complete. The principal parts are made elswhere in Germany and brought to Friedrichshafen to be assembled.

$500,000 Kansas Cargo Leaves U.S. for Belgium

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The steamship Hannah sailed for Rotterdam today with a $500,000 cargo of food and clothing contributed by the people of Kansas for the relief of the destitute Belgians. The flag of Kansas flew at one mast and from the other fluttered a long streamer bearing the inscription, "Prosperous Kansas sends ship of food to starving Belgians."

Fifty members of the Kansas society of New York were at the pier to see the ship depart and gave three cheers when Mrs. Lyndon W. Bates, chairman of the woman's section of the Belgian relief commission, raised the Kansas flag to the Hannah's mast. Charles F. Scott, former congressman from Kansas, will follow on the steamship St. Paul to attend to the distribution of the food.

"THE WHIP"

At The Burns

The last word in the world of impressive stage effects will be seen in "The Whip," the Drury Lane triumph which will be seen at Colorado Springs for two nights. Realism is brought to a point of what might be called photographic expression. Thus there is a pack of genuine foxhounds on the stage, a motor car accident just back center, a locomotive smashup in full view of the audience and finally as fine a horse race as anyone would ever hope to see with a cheering mob.

The triumph of "The Whip," the Drury Lane melodrama which comes to The Burns January 13 and 14, has succeeded most effectively in reviving the taste for this kind of entertainment in America. There could be no stronger refutation of the idea that the public wearies of this or that kind of drama. The people only get tired of poor specimens of the kind. Whether it happens to be a costume play, a problem play, melodrama, farce or musical comedy the public has only liked the best specimens of the school. No manager wanted the American rights to "The Whip" a year or so ago. Now the author could get any sum for them.

The Drury Lane theater, London, is the home of great spectacular productions, but never has any entertainment been put on there equaling in lavish display and massive scenic effects "The Whip," which will be given here in a fitting building.

This great melodrama ran for two years at the Drury Lane theater and for an entire season at the Manhattan opera house, New York, six months, Chicago three months, Boston.

Prices announced tomorrow and they will be as low as in the largest cities. The Burns is going to do this big thing right and make it a credit to the city.

OPERA HOUSE VAUDEVILLE

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 opens the Marcus Loew vaudeville engagement at the Opera house for two days. Everyone can rest assured of seeing a very fine bill. Plenty of novelties, including something new to the vaudeville lovers of Colorado Springs. Cameron and Cleo presenting a most fine illusionist act. Bill Robinson the big colored comedian, a wonderful mirth provoker is what he might be called. Haydn, Burton and Haydn presenting some original oddities, hold the headline this week, and no one after seeing this clever trio will doubt their place on the bill. BEN GREET PLAYERS WILL PRESENT "AS YOU LIKE IT"

The next number of the Y. M. C. A. star course will be the Ben Greet players who will give "As You Like It" in the Burns theater January 15.

Mr. Greet presents the best in dramatic literature with true histrionics in a way which has not been excelled by any other producer. Mr. Greet is considered today one of the greatest living authorities on the English drama and is world famous for his remarkable productions of Shakespearian plays and old English comedies. He has been connected with the stage for 30 years and has taught many actors, perhaps more than any other man living today. For 20 years Mr. Greet has been prominent in England for the performances which his splendid companies have acted each year in London, Oxford, Cambridge, Stratford-upon-Avon and other places in Shakespeare's England. Mr. Greet became well known in America several years ago through his presentation of the morality play "Everyman" under the management of Charles Frohman. This is the first time a play was presented in America by a professional company in the Elizabethan manner. This was later followed by the production of Shakespearian plays and classical comedies. The Ben Greet players gave a season at the Garden theater, New York, covering nearly 200 performances, followed by appearances in other cities throughout the United States. Some years ago the Ben Greet "Woodland players" gave their first open air play at Columbia university before an audience of over 7,000 persons. This was followed by performances at Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Oberlin universities of Chicago, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Michigan, Minnesota, California, etc., and repeated ever since almost annually. Mr. Greet's company was the first to be invited to appear at the White house grounds. The great success of Mr. Greet's productions is largely due to his ability to choose capable players and train them to properly delineate the characters in classical plays. The plays presented by him are given in pure fashion with the minimum stage effect. There is nothing to detract attention from the play. These are real educational productions of masterpieces of classical comedy and drama. There are no stars in the cast, but every actor is experienced and competent. Each player is taught to ... the one purpose of depicting the character as it should be. Absolutely correct diction and pronunciation is a distinguishing characteristic of Mr. Greet's players.

Tickets for "As You Like It" are now on sale at the Y. M. C. A. building.

VIDA SUTTON SERIES

Miss Vida Sutton, formerly of the New theater, New York, and now of the Toy theater, Boston, will be presented at the Antlers on Thursday and Friday evenings and on Saturday afternoon of this week for a series of dramatic programs. Miss Sutton has recently returned from abroad where she was engaged in studying the theater and drama of different countries and in securing material for her own dramatic composition.

So successful was she in the latter that her play, "The Fires of Life," the scenes of which are laid in Devonshire and about the ... of ... the lives of the peasants of that section, has been accepted by Daniel Frohman for production. Miss Sutton's original monologues entitled "Her Point of View" are the result of her close contact during her stay abroad with European women of many countries and classes. They depict in dramatic form the point of view of the ... men, especially those of the humbler classes, Irish, Cockney, Scotch, French and German, among others, and give ... it were the right ... of their ... experiences. Audiences in Paris, London and Munich have given their qualified and ... both the entertainment and ... form ... value of these sketches. This program it will be noted is the first to Miss Sutton's series here. Bernard Shaw's scintillating social satire ... from the basis of the second program and a ... of ... Drama and the Common Life, the Third. The illustrative readings for this latter will be taken from Galsworthy's "Justice" and "The Pigeon," and from Knoblauch's "My Lady's Dress," which is now running successfully in New York with Mary Boland in the leading part.

Miss Sutton is being presented here under the management of Theodore Fisher, whose name has been associated with so many noteworthy musical and literary attractions. Mr. Fisher's aim to make his name as local manager synonymous with only the best has been so well confirmed that the merit of his offerings that it may safely be counted on that Miss Sutton will prove an artist of the highest rank. Seat sale is announced elsewhere in this paper.

BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES ON FACE

Kept Getting Worse. Very Sore, Inflamed and Unsightly. Itched and Burned. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Short Time Well.

Route No. 2, Box 27, Frederic, Wis — "About a year ago, pimples and blackheads broke out on my face and kept getting worse and worse. At first my face was covered with blackheads and in a short time small red spots appeared here and there which increased very rapidly. My face became very sore and inflamed. The eruptions were very unsightly and disfigured me badly. At times they itched and burned so I had to scratch them and after that they got still worse.

"I used two different remedies but got no good results. I wrote for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and that seemed to give good results so I bought three cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. They stopped the burning at once, and in a short time I was entirely well, and all disfigurement was gone." (Signed) Gunard Friberg, November 5, '14.

Beauty of skin and hair promoted and maintained by daily use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

TELLS RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS TO EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, eat less meat but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well. Adv.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Adv.

'LIVING PICTURES' TO BE SHOWN TONIGHT

living pictures so true in likeness to them, and the artistic touches of Julian Story so invaluable and the direction of Mr. Nickerson so excellent and a few more ... that the tableaux vivants tonight will be something that will make even those who have been in close touch with them during preparation gasp. I know whereof I speak and unlike other publicity procurers, the critic excepted, I tell the absolute truth. There are so many good things to write about in this show that I am not forced to resort to fabulous and fatuous tales.

Another word. A special chorus of 50 trained voices will sing tonight. At the close of the first part "Belgium Forever," written by Yvonne and Natalie Townsend, daughters of Lawrence Townsend, former United States minister to Belgium, will be sung and at the close of the production "America" will be given. The two songs will add quite a touch to the production given as it is for the Belgian fund. Incidentally the music has been given especial attention and will be an outstanding feature of the production.

Production is used throughout this story not without considerable forethought, the result being the conclusion that the tableaux vivants will really be a production and not a presentation.

It would be easy to write some real stuff about this Society stunt—all this is merely introductory but I have filled my space and the hour is late. As a last word, there are just a few good seats left, several in the lower floor and a few in the balcony. In case the matter has slipped your mind better call the Opera house the first thing this morning before it's too late. Here's the program. U. S. RESERVE BANKS CAN INVEST IN CITY WARRANTS

Security Must Be Unquestionable, Says Board in Issuing the Regulations

WASHINGTON, Jan 5—The federal reserve board today made public tentative regulations to govern the purchase of municipal warrants issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes or receipt of assured revenues as authorized in the reserve act. The regulations are designed to give the banks an opportunity to make some use of the reserve funds now on deposit with them by member banks.

Defining acceptable warrants the board says that obligations payable from local general and special assessment taxes shall not be taken unless the municipality at large is directly or ultimately liable. Warrants must be those of municipalities in existence for 10 years, and municipalities which for a 10-year period previous to purchase have not defaulted for more than 15 days in the payment of any sort either of principal or interest, of any funded debt. Warrants of a municipality with net funded indebtedness of exceeding 10 per cent of the valuation of its taxable property will not be taken.

No reserve bank is permitted to invest its warrants to exceed 10 per cent of the deposits of its member banks, except with the reserve board's approval and other restrictions are placed upon the amounts to be invested. Special approval must be received to ... the purchase of warrants of municipalities of 10,000 population or less.

"BELGIUM'S OWN DOING"

DR BERNHARD DERNBURG, sent to America by the German Emperor as official apologist and exponent of the cause of Kultur, includes this thought in one of his recent literary efforts to win over American opinion.

It is Belgium's own doing that has placed her in her present plight

Let's see about that. Years before the German empire was organized the King of Prussia signed a joint treaty with England and France guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium in perpetuity. On the organization of the Empire in 1871 the Imperial goverment fell heir to that treaty. Since last August the defenders of the German cause have indulged in a great deal of quibbling over that point, contending that the treaty was never formally renewed by the Imperial Government. But at any rate it was never repudiated, and until August 2, 1914, not only Belgium, but Great Britain and France, continued to be lulled by the belief that the agreement was still equally effective with Germany, as it was with them.

Then Germany went to war with France. The boundary line between the two countries, from Switzerland to Luxembourg, a distance of about 120 miles, was so heavily fortified on the French side that even the Germans considered it impregnable. To get to Paris in a hurry, or even to get there at all, they knew they must go around the neutral territory of Luxembourg, or Belgium, or both

Luxembourg, a mere spot on the map, had no army or fortifications. It was helpless, and the German forces rode across it like a band of midnight raiders crossing somebody's farm They attempted to do the same thing with Belgium They offered to indemnify the government for its losses and frankly declared that if they refused they would reduce the fortifications and ravage the country

Under any circumstances this meant war on Belgian territory for if King Albert had permitted the Germans to use his country as a highway to Paris the French and the British would have been compelled to meet them there Summed up the German ultimatum to the Belgian King was a demand that he submit to the utter devastation of his country—with a cash payment if he refused to resist, without one if he made a fight But in either event the country must be devastated and this despite a solemn treaty guaranteeing its neutrality and signed by the three greatest of the powers

Dr Dernburg's assertion that it is Belgium's own doing that has placed her in her present plight is undoubtedly interesting But it carries about as much conviction as would an assertion that a man held up and robbed by a footpad had only himself to blame for having something in his possession which the robber wanted

PROFITABLE FARMING

A FEW days ago we commented in this column on a report of the Department of Agriculture showing the small profits reaped by the average American farmer In the language of the report, the average farmer has only about as much to show for his year's work as he would if he hired himself out as a farm hand

But now comes a Colorado Springs man, who owns a farm near Fort Collins, with a few figures to show that not all farmers are in the "average" class, and that a Colorado farm, when properly managed, is a profitable enterprise Here is a summary of his receipts for 1914:

38 acres sugar beets	$5,885 48
170 tons alfalfa at $6	1 020 00
17,024 pounds of oats at $1 25	212 54
38 acres beet tops at $3	114 00
Summer pasture, 20 acres at $4	80 00
Fall pasture after cropping	50 00
By-products, milk butter, etc	200 00
Total	$5,562.02

This is one season's output of a 150-acre farm, and the owner declares that it has the habit of doing such things regularly Such results have not yet been realized in El Paso County But a region that can be transformed in less than a decade from an "arid waste" into a farming district with a production of $2,000,000 in one season certainly has something to boast of. And that it what has happened in El Paso County.

CLIMATIC CONDITIONS

THAT the weather man is playing a not unimportant part in the European war thus far has proved self-evident. A goodly number of the Algerian troops have been returned home on account of the severe climatic conditions, and it is reported that the Indian soldiers are suffering intensely from the unaccustomed cold. Naturally those troops are not able to fight as well as the Russian Cossacks and other native regiments, used as they are to the snow and winter conditions.

King Winter is going his own sweet way, to the hindrance of the belligerent forces, which have been compelled to put off all thoughts of a successful advance until warmer weather takes possession of the field.

INSULAR PRIDE

THE British lion has been insulted Not by the distant shriek of German shrapnel, nor by the pen-and-inklings of German writers and cartoonists, but by two daring attacks made under its nose. Furthermore both these events occurred when the king of beasts was dozing in fancied security. The bugaboo of a Teutonic invasion by sea and air again has intruded.

It is quite possible that England needed the sharp awakening caused by the naval attack, and the birds of war which skimmed above the London roofs to arouse the people to a full sense of danger. According to recent press dispatches recruiting activity has almost redoubled and it seems that British statesmen and war lords are blessing the Germans for their tactics.

The world must learn that none can hurt a hair of the head of a German subject with impunity —Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg

The German losses in killed, wounded and captured, as "officially" recorded up to November 15, totaled 1,000,000 men. Apparently the portion of the world which includes the Allied nations needs another reminder of the impropriety of hurting German hairs.

FROM OTHER PENS

THE PRESIDENT AND PREPARATION

From Life

The president said in his message to congress

A powerful navy we have always regarded as our proper and natural means of defense Our ships are our natural bulwarks

From the first we have had a clear and settled policy with regard to military establishments We never have had and while we retain our present principles and ideals we never will have a large standing army If asked Are you ready to defend yourselves? we reply Most assuredly to the utmost and yet we shall not turn America into a military camp

The only thing we can do (is) to provide a system by which every citizen who will volunteer for the training may be made familiar with the use of modern arms the rudiments of drill and maneuver and the maintenance and sanitation of camps We should encourage such training make it as attractive as possible and so induce our young men to undergo it It is right too that the National guard of the states should be developed and strengthened More than this carries with it a reversal of the whole history and character of our polity

That is very well if it is done but it will cost something to do it with success Will the money be voted?

Moreover the increase of the regular army by 25,000 men as recommended by Secretary Garrison, would not reverse any of our history or character No more would a due provision of field-guns Mr Garrison says we need more also more ammunition It is nothing to the advantage of character, nor does it embellish history to be short of powder when you want very urgently to shoot some off

It is true that from the first we have had a policy about military establishments and it is also true that we might have had a worse one than we did but not without considerable effort We have always been slack and had to scramble ridiculously when we got into a fuss Of course we don't want large standing armies but if when asked if we are ready to defend ourselves to reply Most assuredly to the utmost we are usually bluffing for we are not ready by a jugful We have had to fight from time to time, and we have never been anywhere near ready when the clock struck

We do not want to be too ready That would be worse than the way we have been used to manage. But we ought to make a decent approximation to readiness, especially in these days when there is so much military efficiency knocking around in the world.

There's nothing new in the idea that our policy is shiftless Everybody who knows about such things knows that Mr Root did as much to improve it as our numerous and pacific people would permit. It is better than it was, but not good enough yet, and this is a good time to stir about it, just as when the next village burns up is a good time for our village to cough up and buy a fire-engine We can boost our precious military ideal an eighth of an inch without lifting the roof off of our national domicile.

NATION-WIDE PROHIBITION IN TEN YEARS?

From the Chicago Tribune.

It may be assumed that there was a good deal more talk of congress in barrooms yesterday than there was of barrooms in congress the day before or than there ever before has been talk of congress in the brass railed chambers of the demon rum

There is a feeling in these mirrored and railed precincts that prohibition, by federal provision or by such widespread state action that it will have the effect of federal enactment, will come some time That "some time" may be as indefinitely in the future as the sot's promise to himself to "lay off the stuff"

A good many men who soberly make their living in the rum business, and a good many men who drunkenly waste theirs in the pursuit of libatory happiness believe that legislation in interference of both the business and the pursuit is inevitable

The increasing number of states which prohibit the sale of alcoholic drinks and the growth of the local option movement intensify this belief, and when congress is found taking a vote on the submission of an amendment to the constitution which would prevent the manufacture and sale of liquor the feeling that the country is getting towards prohibition rapidly is lively.

The national house of representatives found it possible to avoid the physical and moral issue raised by liquor The vote was simply on the method of arriving at a result, so far as the important speeches explained the question. Congress nearly always can fall back upon a fundamental theory of government if it wants to get a question into the realm of safe generalizations and out of that of dangerous particulars

An encouragingly large number of representatives tarried in Washington to face the issue and the music It had been supposed that many would remember that they had only three days remaining for their Christmas shopping. They may have concluded that absence would be more damaging than a vote, or they may have decided to stand up and be counted and take the consequences In any case, they presented the superficial aspect of courage

The men who opposed the amendment deserve at least the respectful consideration of their opponents The elimination of alcohol from the desires and needs of men would be, so far as anyone knows a tremendous contribution to human progress. There are factors in the situation which keep many intelligent men from reaching that conclusion as a finality, but the great and apparent benefits are so presented that any attempt to qualify the downright arguments against the use of alcohol for exhilaration is apt to find itself in self-questioning condition.

Men who are extremely interested in the preservation of the business of making and selling liquor do not argue They fight. They permit the use of rhetoric by their publicity men, but they do not rely on it The method by which making and sale of liquor shall be prevented is the obstacle over which men not extremely interested split

Men not at all interested in preserving the business or in using its product differ as to the practicability or advisability of imposing rules of personal hygiene and sanity upon a nation of nearly 100,000,000 people These differences may be dissolved. We believe that if a nation-wide vote upon the manufacture and sale of liquor were permitted, the nation would prohibit it Men who drink would vote for prohibition- not all who drink, but many who drink What would happen thereafter we do not pretend to know.

It is observable and conceded that the drift of the nation is towards restriction, if not extinction, of the liquor business Nation-wide prohibition within 10 years? It may be

THE FRANK CASE

From the Chicago Herald

The action of Justice Lamar in opening the door of the supreme court of the United States to Leo M. Frank should meet with the approbation of every citizen and particularly those of Georgia

Criticism of the proceedings that condemned this man to death has been nation-wide The conduct of the trial the scenes that surrounded the proceedings the spirit of racial antagonism to the defendant the character of the witnesses who testified for the state the almost uncanny chain of circumstances that pushed this young man into the shadow of the gallows all cry aloud for the intervention of some reviewing authority far removed from the scene of the crime

Georgia should welcome this intervention not because her legally constituted officials are incapable of seeing that justice is done or injustice not done but because a calm investigation of the case by the highest court in the land is a proceeding which will either silence the charges that have been made against those responsible for the conviction, and this includes officials and nonofficials, or will prevent a miscarriage of justice.

EGYPT

Egypt is an African country consisting largely of the right of way of the river Nile

If there was no Nile river there would be no Egypt At least the country would not be distinguishable from the rest of the Sahara desert which consists of 1,000 000 parts sand, one part of fleas and a trace of water.

The Nile arises in the dark thorax of Africa and wanders north 4,000 miles into the Mediterranean Its habits are much like those of the Mississippi river but much more regular Each June, the Nile rises and overflows the land on either side It then subsides and behaves itself with unfailing docility while the Egyptian comes down out of the date palms and house tops and raises a thundering big crop on the mucky bottoms.

If the Mississippi could control its habits it would be justly beloved as is the Nile For 6,000 years the Nile has been spoken of by the Egyptians with great affection, while the Arkansas farmer who has gotten up at midnight to escape a rise in the Mississippi which wasn't on the calendar mentions it and the Republican party in the same breath

Egypt has 400,000 square miles, but only 13,000 of these are worth cultivating However, this little strip of land, a little larger than Massachusetts, supports 10,000,000 people though not as well as the paupers in the Massachusetts poor house are supported

Egypt is chiefly distinguished for its pyramids and its age. Its pyramids are the largest structures ever erected by man, but are out of date and useless, having no ventilation or elevators They were built 4,000 years ago, a time when Egypt was already upwards of 3 000 years old and still going strong. Six thousand years ago this country was the greatest nation on earth but it didn't live up to its opportunities It buried its dead kings in tombs of granite as large as a Nebraska mountain, and kept its living taxpayers in mud huts This caused the said taxpayers to deteriorate so rapidly that for the last 2,000 years they haven't amounted to much England has run the country of late and the most interesting things in it are the neatly preserved remains of its old families who died off before Rome got into swaddling clothes

A great many nations flourished and grew great in the old days but their kings always made the mistake of thinking that they were the only inhabitants who needed any support and the population in consequence died off very inconsiderately and left said kings in an awkward and ridiculous position Nothing is more embarassing than to be a great king without any population among the royal assets

"LET'S PRETEND" AND SOME DAY

BY RUTH CAMERON

"There, that's my house, I heard a young girl on the trolley say to her companion eagerly leaning forward and pointing out a pretty little brown frame house with a pretty garden.

"Your house" blankly from him

"Yes you know the house I chose We girls have to take this long ride every day and we amuse ourselves by each picking out our favorite house We pass through several towns and I have a house in every town It's great fun We take such an interest in them."

The girl's companion listened to this outburst with an air somewhat superior, somewhat amused, but not at all interested When he spoke it was to change the subject

Without knowing one thing more about those two people I felt assured from that scrap of conversation that they were not meant for each other, and I hoped that I was not witnessing a budding romance. For it was plain to see that she was the citizen of a country that he never could and never would care to enter—the beautiful land of "let's pretend"

The Wonderful Land of "Let's Pretend"

If all the happiness in the world comes from real pleasures and all the happiness that comes from anticipation and from just pretending could be compared I wonder which would be the larger accumulation.

Not to know the way into the land of "let's pretend" or having once known it to have forgotten it as one travels "farther from the east" is one of the greatest tragedies in life

The lack of money can rob you of some pleasures the lack of health and vitality or of congenial companionship of many more but nothing can rob you of all the happiness to be found in the land of "let's pretend" if you keep the key to the gate of that wonderful country in your heart

Journeys That Cost Nothing.

I know a girl who is passionately fond of travel and cannot afford half enough of it to satisfy her craving, yet she is not unhappy or dissatisfied, for she is a citizen of the land of "let's pretend" and during the long stretches that elapse between her trips she keeps herself happy by collecting time tables and steamer schedules and Baedeckers and planning wonderful trips. She may take them some day and she may never take them, but the happiness of planning and pretending and anticipating is hers, and nothing can take it away

Again I know two young folks who can find infinite diversion in poring over their catalog of musical records and compiling fascinating lists of the records they are going to buy when their "ship comes in"

A child without toys is considered a pathetic sight, but to me he is no more pathetic than the grown man or woman who does not know how to play with the wonderful playthings of let's pretend and someday.

PELLAGRA—1

No other statement made at the recent meeting of the American Public Health association was so important as that of the public health service that the pellagra situation had been solved, that is, from the public health standpoint As I understand the service's position it is this.

Pellagra is caused by a diet out of balance in certain directions It can be prevented by the habitual use of a properly balanced diet Where in a given closed community, for instance a hospital, pellagra is found to be present to a considerable degree the disease can be banished by a rearrangement of the diet In an open community, ordinary town and country life, the disease can be eradicated according to the degree of change in diet which the people can be induced to make

So much for the position of the public health service on the positive side. On the negative side it holds that the disease is not contagious or communicable; that it is not spread by flies or insects of any sort that it is not caused by eating cornmeal that it is not the result of living in insanitary houses

As to the ability of a change in diet to cure the individual case of pellagra that depends on the stage of the disease and other factors On that point the service had but little to say Its work is with public health, not personal health.

The changes in the diet recommended by Dr Goldberger to prevent pellagra consists essentially in increasing the amounts in the daily diet of good fresh meat peas and beans

The eventual eradication of pellagra from our south will depend largely on the successful introduction of common dried legumes into the winter dietary A valuable step in this direction would be an increase in the cultivation of some of the varieties of peas and beans of their preservation in the dried state for winter consumption The farmers of the far south are planning to greatly decrease the cotton agreage in '915 They are investigating what crops Under the stimulus given by the public health service in advocating this preventive for pellagra, there should be a large demand for peas beans, fresh sweet milk and eggs

Cornfield peas grow well in most portions of the south They are a good winter dish Perhaps Mexican frijoles will also suit the southern soil and climate

Incidentally it occurs to me that the public health service should inquire as to the amount of pellagra among the frijoe eating Mexicans.

LENGTHEN THE JIBBERWEAR

E K writes. "Each winter for the last three or four years I have had a cold tub bath in the morning, and I have found that I am able to get along comfortably with my summer underwear (knee length and no sleeves). But once or twice each week during the last winter or two the calves of my legs and, in fact, the limbs all of the way up have got sore and chapped. I have been rubbing cocoa butter on them, which seems to relieve the condition somewhat Is there any way of overcoming this, and is there anything better than cocoa butter for such a condition?"

REPLY

I know of nothing better than cocoa butter I think a better plan would be to lengthen your underwear. The friction of your outer garments and the effects of the cold are too much for your skin

French vichy is a carbonated alkaline water. Each 1,000 parts contains 28 parts carbonic acid gas, 48 parts bicarbonates of soda and small quantities of bicarbonates of potash, magnesium, lime and chloride of soda.

I have no information about Gerolstein except that it is a lithia water. Neither has any great medicinal action

A SURE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. Adv.

HIGHWAY ENTHUSIASTS TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Many Delegates From All Parts of State Expected at Meeting in Denver January 20

Preparations to attend the fourth annual convention of the Lincoln Highway Association of Colorado, which is the local division of the Pikes Peak Ocean-to-Ocean highway, in Denver January 20, are being made by Colorado Springs people who are interested in the good roads movement. The meetings will be held at the same time as the annual convention of the Colorado Good Roads association. The official call for the meeting was issued yesterday by A. W. Henderson, secretary of the association. Delegates to the convention will be named within the next few days. The call is as follows:

Transcontinental travel will assume greater proportions than ever before during the year 1915, due to the two California expositions and the increased interest in the "See America First" movement. The tourist will naturally seek the route of greatest scenic interest, and it is important that he be informed of the logical advantages of the Pikes Peak Ocean-to-Ocean highway.

The Lincoln Highway Association of Colorado is now a unit in the Pikes Peak Ocean-to-Ocean highway—the central, scenic transcontinental route. Following out the instructions given at the third annual meeting, the officers of the association have affiliated as the Colorado division of this strong interstate federation and are cooperating with states to the east and west to bring this route to the favorable attention of cross-country motorists.

The feasibility of the mountain division of this highway was demonstrated by the reliability-sociability run from Colorado Springs to Salt Lake City last August.

Plans for the greater development and advertisement of this highway should now be made, and this will be one of the principal subjects for attention at the fourth annual meeting of the Lincoln Highway Association of Colorado—and we, therefore, issue this, the official call for said meeting—to be held in Denver at the Albany hotel, at 8 p. m. Wednesday, January 20, 1915.

At this meeting, reports of the year's work, election of officers and consideration of plans for the future usefulness of the association will be the order of business, together with such other business as the members may bring to the attention of the association. Under the constitution of the Lincoln Highway Association of Colorado, counties are the units of regular membership, and each county will be entitled to five votes at the annual convention, such votes to be cast by the delegates present from each county. The counties of Kit Carson, Lincoln, Elbert, El Paso, Teller, Park, Chaffee, Lake, Eagle, Pitkin, Garfield, Mesa and Rio Blanco comprise the present membership of the association.

Members of the state highway commission, members of the boards of county commissioners, mayors of cities and incorporated towns and county surveyors and city and town engineers in the counties holding membership in the association are ex-officio delegates to the convention. Boards of county commissioners, mayors and city councils, boards of trustees of incorporated towns, local good road associations, automobile clubs, commercial bodies, agricultural and stock growers' associations and editors and proprietors of newspapers in these counties are entitled to appoint accredited delegates to the convention.

The convention is held this year at the same time and place as the annual convention of the Colorado Good Roads association. Reduced rates will be in effect from all parts of the state.

It is highly important that all the counties be represented at the coming convention, because of the importance of the year's work ahead of the association. Members of the board of directors in each county, as well as those entitled to appoint delegates, are urged to give immediate attention and advise the secretary, at the earliest possible date, as to the names of their delegates. Please address correspondence to the Secretary, Lincoln Highway Association of Colorado, Burns building, Colorado Springs.

COMMITTEES OUTLINE WORK FOR NEW YEAR

Increased Membership, Farm Projects and Other Matters Discussed

Preliminary recommendations from the various committees of the Chamber of Commerce relative to the work of the association for the ensuing year are being prepared and will be considered at a meeting of the board of directors next week. At a meeting of the agricultural committee yesterday plans for the extension of last year's work were discussed. Special attention will be paid to the boys' and girls' club work under the direction of County Agriculturist W. H. Lauck and his assistant, Miss Beulah Herschler. An effort will be made to materially increase the present membership and enlarge the number of clubs. There are a number of problems to be discussed by the committee, such as the advisibility of holding a Central Colorado exposition next winter, and other agricultural matters.

Similar questions came before the attention of the advertising committee, which also met yesterday.

It was reported by the membership committee, which has been conducting a campaign for delinquent dues, that $159 has been collected. This sum was received from members who had not paid their dues for 1914. The campaign will be continued until a report from last year's delinquent members has been secured.

The remainder of the week will be devoted to the meeting of the different committees and the drawing up of the preliminary recommendations for approval by the board at the meeting next week.

One thousand copies of the December issue of Moody's magazine, which contained an article on the dry farming districts of eastern El Paso county by E. H. Talbot, editor of the Railway Age Gazette, were received yesterday by Secretary A. W. Henderson of the Chamber of Commerce. These magazines will be used in the colonization work of the association in drawing the attention of prospective settlers to the dry farming conditions east of Colorado Springs. The story is entitled "The Land of Promise," is well illustrated, and is devoted to showing the prospects of dry farming in Colorado.

WESTERN HORSES PROVE STRENGTH IN JOURNEY

One Has Traveled 17,000, Rider Asserts, Since May, 1912; on 20,000-Mile Trip

Carrying certificates from 43 governors to prove that they have traveled nearly 17,400 miles on horseback since May 1, 1912, four men rode into Colorado Springs yesterday on the last lap of a 20,000-mile trip. They have still 2,600 miles to go and if they reach San Francisco by June 1, next, under certain conditions, they will receive a purse of $20,000 contributed by western horse breeders. The one important condition is that the "Overland Westerners," as they are known, must reach their destination with at least one of the horses used at the start. Also they must finish their tour after having visited the capital of every state in the Union.

The men are C. C. Beck, J. B. Ransom, George W. Beck and R. S. Bayne. They left Olympia, Wash., the starting point, May 1, 1912, and have yet to visit the capitals of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California.

They started with five branded western horses and have one of the original string left. This horse has carried 200 pounds the entire distance and is said to be in as good condition as at the start. He is a pinto, half Arabian stock, 8 years old, and fully capable of ending the 20,000-mile tour in triumphant style, according to his owners. The men have had 11 mounts altogether, and whenever a horse has played out they have traded him for a fresh one. The chief object of the trip was to prove the stamina of western horses under trying and varying conditions of altitude, feed, water and stabling conditions.

The transcontinental trip is said to be the longest ever attempted on horseback. The men are accompanied by "Nip," half Gordon setter and half Newfoundland, who has covered nearly twice the distance that the mounts have in his ramblings.

The horses are quartered at the Bryant stable, on North Cascade avenue. The riders expect to continue their journey this morning, and from here they will go to New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and California. Both the pinto and "Nip" are expected to be great attractions at the Panama-Pacific exposition, and a story of the trip will be written in book form.

The four riders are all old cow hands who were employed by the Circle S outfit in western Montana when they agreed to undertake the 20,000-mile trip to prove the endurance of western horses.

'GO TO PRAYER MEETING' CAMPAIGN OPENS TONIGHT

Everyone Urged by Ministerial Association and Gospel Teams to Attend Special Services

The "Go to Prayer Meeting" campaign, which has been arranged under the auspices of the Ministerial association and gospel teams, will be inaugurated this evening in all the churches. The meetings will be conducted by members of the teams and will be repeated every Wednesday night this month. The general theme of the talks will be "God's Laws for a Spiritual Harvest." The subjects for the four talks are as follows: Tonight, "Prayer;" next Wednesday, "Faith;" January 20, "Bible Meditation;" January 27, "Personal Work." Prayer meetings also may be arranged at a number of the sanatoria.

The object of the campaign is to try to get people more interested in the work of the different churches and to get them to become regular churchgoers. If, at the end of the month, it is found that people are interested in the movement, the prayer meetings will be continued indefiniately. The following teams will take charge of the meetings at the various churches this evening: Colorado City Baptist church, team No. 20; St. Johns Baptist church, team No. 19; First Christian church, team No. 13; Colorado City Christian church, team No. 18; Second Congregational church, team No. 17; First Methodist church, team No. 6; Asbury Methodist church, team No. 8; St. Pauls M. The Salvage of Germany

—E. S. Martin in Life

We have been taught to consider that a leading detail of the disturbance in the German mind that brought on the war was the big German assumption about Germany's duty to the rest of mankind. As to that, one blames not so much Germany's aspiration to improve the world as the preliminary methods she had in view in doing it. She proposed first to subdue the other nations and then run in improvements on them. They object to being subdued, and their objections are going to prevail, but what she may do by peaceable means is only limited by the merits of her system.

She has done much: she will, without doubt, do much more; but not by force. Mrs. Gertrude Atherton's opinion is interesting. She says, in a letter to the New York Times:

While the defeat of Germany would be a tragedy for herself alone, the defeat of Great Britain would be a tragedy (and a disaster) for the whole world. For 300 years, barring the Napoleonic episode, England has been the predominant influence in the world. I have not the least doubt that 50 years from now Germany will have usurped this position, but that will be after she has become a democracy, literally or in effect, and the mailed fist and the iron heel are stored in the World's museum.

Maybe so, but the puncture of the British tire does not look so imminent as it did. It probably will turn out that Germany has been an immense stimulant and tonic to Great Britain.

Moreover, though Germany is so efficient, and has come along so fast, she is not yet so civilized, by a long way, as England. And she is, apparently, overstrained. She has worked very hard, made huge efforts. Her pace of the last 40 years seems to have been too hard for her. That shows in her aberrations of judgment, in her megalomania and inability to get the point of view of people who are not Germans. That she should be led back to meekness and sanity by hard knocks is a severe treatment, but no other seemed practicable.

None of us should wish to see Germany humbled any more than her spiritual needs require. She has elements in her that are obviously valuable. She has undoubtedly a mission in the world, and it is to the world's advantage that she should fulfill it. But she has not only much to teach, but a vast deal to learn. The danger that she will overrun civilization with Krupp guns is passing. The moment it has passed our neutral interest in the war will shift, because the other nations being safe and rifled Belgium sure of such atonement as can be made to her, the matter of highest human interest will then become the salvage of all that is good in Germany.

Maeterlinck, a Belgian, in whom any ferocity of opinion is excusable and almost praiseworthy, says the Prussians have that in their blood that entitles them to be extirpated like wasps. Americans, not being Belgians, will by no means share any such view. We want indeed to see the world finally freed from all fear of Prussian domination, but we shall be solicitous to save all the good pieces of Germany, and two-thirds of Germany is Prussia.

But we shall not have much to say about it. Our sons have not been fed to Krupps, nor our cities burned and held for ransom, and the war will work out in accordance not with our feelings, but with the feelings of those countries that have a reckoning to settle. When we read of a proposal to exact a war tax of $7,000,000 a month to support a German army in Belgium and read of Haeckel's alleged suggestions of what is necessary to secure Germany's future, our hopes for Germany sink low, and we wonder all over again whether there is to be a new example of "whom the gods determine to destroy they first make mad."

Coughs, Cold Stiff Neck Neuralgia

Especially in the piercing pain of neuralgia or the dull throb of headache is Sloan's Liniment wonderfully relieving. Laid lightly on the part where the pain is felt, it gives at once a feeling of comfort and ease that is most welcome to the overwrought sufferer.

Here What Others Say:

FEDERALS FILE ANTITRUST SUIT AGAINST MAJORS AND COMMISSION

Ask That Intricate Organization Be Declared Illegal, Interleague Agreements Be Dissolved, Players Made Free Agents

CHICAGO, Jan 5.—The Federal league, resuming its war on organized baseball, today fired its heaviest gun—an antitrust suit against the leading bodies operating under the national agreement, including the National league, the American league and the national commission.

The suit it is said threatens the entire fabric of organized baseball carrying not only the possibility that the intricate organization be declared illegal and the [illegible] interleague agreements be dissolved but that the 10,000 ball players in major and minor leagues be declared free agents.

The bill of complaint was filed in the United States district court for northern Illinois, and first action on it was taken by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, an ardent baseball fan, who set January 20 as the day for hearing. It asserts that the national agreement, under which organized baseball exists, was made for the purpose of so dominating players that their engagements by clubs outside the alleged combination would be difficult, if not impossible.

The bill includes 11 prayers for relief, the leading sections being:

1—That the national agreement and the rules of the national commission be declared illegal and the defendants enjoined from operating under them.

2—That the defendants be declared to constitute a combination, conspiracy and monopoly in contravention of the antitrust statutes, and that they be enjoined from further doing business as a part of said monopoly.

3—That the defendants be declared to have conspired to injure or destroy the plaintiff's business and enjoined from continuing their conspiracy, particularly from saying the plaintiffs are financially irresponsible and from threatening with 'blacklist' any player under federal contract.

4—That all contracts with players heretofore made by the defendants under the national agreement be declared, as to the plaintiffs, "null, void and of no effect" and that the defendants be enjoined from seeking to enforce such contracts against players later signed by the Federals.

5. That the defendants be ordered to dismiss the various actions now pending against players.

6. That they be restrained from seeking, by injunctions, threats or promises to prevent other players from performing their several contracts.

Section 7 asks a preliminary injunction covering the various matters, while sections 8 and 9 ask for damages and relief for injuries done the Federal league by its rivals. Sections 10 and 11 ask that writs of injunction and subpoenas be issued.

The text of the national agreement is appended to the bill of complaint.

NEW YORK, Jan 5.—Organized baseball will fight the suit begun by the Federal league in the United States court in Chicago, President Ban Johnson of the American league declared here tonight.

"This suit is an offshoot of the Gallagher resolution in the house of representatives a few years ago to investigate the 'baseball trust' which was pigeonholed," Johnson said. "We said then we would welcome congressional investigation and we feel the same about it now."

WINGO SIGNS TWO-YEAR CONTRACT WITH HERZOG

Catcher Is Signed With Cards, but Will Be Transferred to the Cincinnati Club

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 5.—According to a dispatch received tonight from Atlanta, Ga., Manager Charles Herzog of the Cincinnati ball team has signed Catcher Ivy Wingo to a two-year contract. The catcher has been reported as having signed with the Federal league. Wingo's contract was signed to [illegible] with the St. Louis National league team, with which he played last season.

It is understood, however, that Wingo will be transferred to the Cincinnati team in exchange for [illegible] players [illegible] Cuban, Armando Marsans, who jumped to the Federal league last year, but was prevented by court proceedings from playing with the St. Louis Feds, will be given the right to negotiate with him.

John Kling, former Chicago and Cincinnati catcher, was in this city tonight, but did not see President Herrmann, and the deal for Wingo, it is believed, will mean that Kling will not sign with the Cincinnati team for the 1915 season, as had been rumored.

OUTLOOK IS GREAT FOR WESTERN LEAGUE, SAYS "TIP" O'NEILL

Says That Circuit Suffered Least From Federals Last Season

Tip O'Neill, the genial optimist and president of the Western league, has come forth with an interview in which he declares the Western league is on a sound, solid basis, fears not the terrible Federals, was a swell financial investment last year and will be again this year.

"You have heard the blasts from the American association and from the International league," says Fighting Tip, "about the injuries inflicted by the Federal league last season? Well, you haven't heard the Western league emitting a yelp, have you? I should say not. I'll admit, and let me say, for one, that we finished the season in good shape. Every club with possibly two exceptions, made money, and we will continue to do so."

It is to be hoped that O'Neill's pleasant prophecies may bear out when the 1915 season rolls around. It is to be hoped that a good class A article of ball is played and that the fans patronize the games. And in view of the fact that flocks of pessimistical [illegible] gentlemen around the circuit have already begun to froth at the mouth with vociferous declarations that the Western is doomed, that the present circuit cities must be changed and that the league is due to go broke before July 4, just like the Feds did last year, O'Neill's optimism comes like a ray of sunshine on a dismal and rainy day.

If O'Neill's optimism is true, and it probably is, as he seldom says anything for publication which he doesn't mean, the magnates of the circuit should become imbued with that spirit and also the fans. There is no reason why the 1915 season in the Western shouldn't be a good one under the new conditions, which will be a wonderful help to such cities as Wichita, Topeka and Lincoln.

Seaman on Florida Is Killed in Bout

WASHINGTON, Jan 5.—Edward C[illegible] of Indianapolis, ordinary seaman on the battleship Florida, was killed Saturday night in a boxing match aboard the ship. No details have been received at the navy department tonight.

[illegible] [illegible] the deck [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Walsh was placed under arrest [illegible] [illegible] at large at [illegible] the Florida.

TWO FEATHERS SUSPENDED BY COLUMBUS COMMISSION

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5.—The Columbus boxing commission tonight suspended Young Pals Cline of New York and Frankie Burns of New Orleans, featherweight boxers, for failure to live up to contract. Other boxing commissions will be notified of the local commission's actions.

JACOB RUPPERT PAYS $400,000 FOR BALL CLUB

Jacob Ruppert Jr. of New York city, one of the richest brewers in the country and for several terms a member of congress as a representative of Tammany hall, has bought the New York club of the American league for a price somewhere between $400,000 and $500,000. The club has been owned since it was organized by Frank Farrell and William S. Devery, former chief of police of New York. They have made some money from it, but the club has never been a big winner and has been managed so poorly that it failed to be the money maker it might have been. Baseball men feel certain that under the active management of Colonel Ruppert a club which we of [illegible] amount to something in the baseball might be built up in New York.

INDOOR GOLF IS GOTHAM'S LATEST POPULAR PASTIME

[illegible] Hotels and Restaurants Install [illegible] to Help Players Improve Game

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—No matter how hard the wind blows or how hard it snows or rains in New York, the elements do their worst, the good and ancient sport of golf will not suffer during the long and weary winter months.

The latest innovation here is the indoor golf game. Many of the leading hotels and restaurants are fixing indoor courses installed [illegible] the conditions will be far from those encountered on the outdoor course. Drives of 300 yards cannot be made but then the player can enjoy the sensation of having a swing at the ball.

Amateurs and especially those who have gone stale welcome the indoor game with open arms. After putting through several weeks at the indoor practice they find marked improvement in their playing. Of the several courses already installed the nine hole putting green is the most popular. The space occupied by this takes up only 30 feet. To keep the ball on a true course a special woven carpet with a heavy nap is laid and around the holes a very fine sand is spread. To give the layout a golfy appearance a painted outdoor scene is furnished as a background. Practice facilities are almost perfect as the course is partly surrounded with mirrors so the player can see his mistakes and correct them.

BOBBY BURNS LOSES TO JOE DEMELFI ON FOUL

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—A foul blow landed by Bobby Burns of Dallas, Tex., gave Joe Demelfi (Young Zulu Kid) of Brooklyn the decision in the fourth round of what was to have been an eight-round bout here tonight. Burns struck Demelfi on a nerve center below the left hip, paralyzing the left leg. Several hours after the battle the New Yorker was still unable to use the limb. They weighed 18[illegible]

New Dictionary for Baseball

Here is something every fan should have, according to the Des Moines Register and Leader. We are not selling books for any firm, but we wish to recommend the books, if they are all written along the following lines:

THE BASEBALL BRITTANICA

Scope card: A small placard carrying an incorrect lineup and sold by a person who steps on your pet corn. See Common Pests (Vol. 1, Page 12).

Umpire (From the Latin noun umpe, meaning robber, and the Greek adjective ire, meaning daylight, hence daylight robber): A person who has reached the age of 21 and officiates on the ball field. Otherwise he may have good sense. It is not necessary that an umpire be blind, but it will not be held against him by the league president if he is.

Texas Leaguer (n): A gentleman who has played ball in the Texas league, or, a fly ball which the shortstop thinks the center fielder ought to get and the center fielder thinks the shortstop ought to catch. See Club House Discussion (Vol. II, page 1354).

Third Strike: That time or times when, if it is called third strike, the player shifts his chew from one side to the other, draws a line with his bat, proving the ball did not come within three blocks of the plate and informs the umpire he thought Captain Kidd was dead. Also see Longest Walk in the World, Home Plate to the Bench (Vol. IV, page 5,843). Also see Bases Full and Two Out (Vol. 1, page 859).

LOBERT SIGNS 3-YEAR CONTRACT WITH GIANTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Hans Lobert today signed a three-year contract with the New York National league club. Lobert, former Philadelphia third baseman, came to the Giants in a trade yesterday for Stock, Demaree, Adams and a cash consideration.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan 5.—Two conflicting elements, covering of short contracts and European selling, were the primary features of today's comparatively active and strong stock market. Further settlements by the bears soon disclosed a scarcity of stocks and the foreign offerings, chiefly of United States Steel, were hardly large enough to effect that issue nor any of the other leaders, most of which closed under their best prices, but with a firm undertone.

In addition to the active group, numerous specialties, including American Can, common and preferred, American Cotton Oil, International Harvester, American Woolen and Pullman Car rose from 2 to 4 points. The movement was not all the one way, however, several of the high priced, as well as low priced stocks, sinking to new minimum prices. Among these were Louisville & Nashville, Atlantic Coastline, National Railways of Mexico, first preferred; Western Maryland, preferred and Rumely, preferred. The fall in some of these stocks ranged from 6 to 15 points under previous quotations.

Destination of the $3,000,000 gold bars taken from the assay office yesterday remained a mystery.

New financing by the St. Paul road again came under discussion, but no details concerning the reported bond issue were available.

A broader inquiry was seen in the bond division with a higher level of prices. Total sales par value, were $1,956,000.

United States government bonds were stronger on call, registered 4s advancing ¼ and Panama coupon and registered 3s ½ per cent.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Jan 5.—Prices, said not to have been equaled for cash wheat here at this time of the year since the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, were reported today on 'change.

Domestic millers were the chief buyers of the cash wheat that was bargained for in Chicago. Exporters, whose urgent requirements for European shipments have brought about an almost unprecedented situation in regard to breadstuffs, were said to have continued to buy large amounts, but 800,000 bushels was the greatest total known. Meanwhile, speculative values here swept higher, and, although unsettled at the finish, were 1⅝c to 3⅝@2⅝c above last night. Corn closed unchanged to a sixteenth higher, oats up ⅛@¼c to ⅜c, and provisions, dearer by 7½@10c to 35c.

Speculative dealers at the start cut loose boldly on dependence on what exporters here did or did not do for the moment concerning wheat. Direct cable advices from Liverpool admitted that the British market was excited and that offerings there were scarce, not only from the United States, but also from Argentina. Lively profit taking here by fortunate bulls threatened for a while to offset the greater part of the fresh gains, but on a second swell the market rebounded higher than before and bounded up within ⅛c of the top level reached.

On the crest of the advance today No 2 red winter wheat sold at $1.36¾ a bushel, a price not approached here in January since 1882, during the Turko-Russian war. The May option today went to $1.37⅝@1.37¾, a bulge of 10⅜@10⅝c a bushel, as compared with just a week ago.

Corn made a strong start with wheat, but ran into heavy profit taking and a decided increase of country offerings. The market rallied, though, as a result of the late upturn in wheat. Oats swayed with corn. There was also a fair cash demand for oats, including 100,000 bushels to exporters.

Outside interests bought provisions freely. Big receipts of hogs and in increase of the stock of cut meats at western packing centers was apparently more than offset by reports of a sharp improvement in cash demand.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 5.—New northwestern price records were established on the Portland exchange today for wheat, oats, bran and shorts. Wheat advanced 6 cents a bushel, while oats, bran and shorts advanced $1.50 a ton.

Spot blue stem sold at $1.37, an advance of 4½c over yesterday's bids. February blue stem sold at $1.41, advancing 5 cents. March red Russian advanced 6 cents over yesterday's bids, selling at $1.37. May oats were sold at $36.50, February bran at $28 and shorts at $29 per ton.

All grades of flour advanced 20 cents a barrel, reaching the highest quotation in 15 years.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—In sympathy with the movements of wheat markets elsewhere, all grades of bakers' flour here jumped 50 cents a barrel today. Family extras remained stationary.

CRUISER KARLSRUHE SEEN IN THE ATLANTIC

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Jan. 5.—A report is current here today that the American steamer Maracaibo of the Red D line saw the German cruiser Karlsruhe, one of the few German warships still at large, in the Atlantic, the night of January 1, between this island and the Venezuelan port of La Guaira.

FLOUR JUMPS 55 CENTS A BARREL IN JUST 24 HOURS

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—War prices today not only hoisted wheat, but dealt a stunning blow to consumers of flour. Top grades of the best patent flour were elevated just 55 cents a barrel as compared with 25 hours previous, being held at $7.15 a barrel.

Second qualities of flour that sold for $5.60 last week were quoted at $6.30 a barrel after today's rise. Flour that commanded today $7.15 a barrel sold in August for $5.30 a barrel. The reason given for the advance in the cost of flour was the fact that owing to the abnormal European demand for breadstuffs, cash wheat in Chicago today had touched $1.36⅛, the highest January price in more than 40 years.

Waves of buying in the wheat pit on 'change here carried the chief speculative option, May delivery, up to $1.37⅝@¾, a leap of more than 10c in a week and of three cents or more above last night. Many brokers declared that the latest upturn was merely another step toward $2 wheat—that the price of the May option would go far beyond the $1.85 record established in 1898 at the time of the Leiter deal.

On the other hand, the export buying came to at least a temporary halt today, so far as Chicago was concerned, though not at the seaboard. It was also a fact that great numbers of speculative traders, including many so-called eleventh-hour bulls, were content to realize profits, and get out of the market. Indeed, at one time today during a backward sweep of prices some of the selling was said to be of an ominous stop-loss character.

CALIFORNIA'S EIGHT-HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The wisdom of limiting the hours of work of pupil nurses to eight hours a day while imposing no such restriction on graduate nurses was defended today in briefs filed with the supreme court by counsel for the state of California.

The briefs were filed in cases dealing with the validity of California's women's eight-hour labor law, which are to be argued the first of next week. The cases will involve a decision as to whether an eight-hour restriction on the labor of women is a reasonable one, this being the first time the question has come before the court.

In the briefs it was urged that within the last few years it has been realized that pupil nurses were undergoing too great a strain. It was stated that investigation showed the pupils unable to grasp mental training after ten hours of labor and that many of them came out of their two or three years' training physical wrecks.

The decision of the court in the entire case may affect eight-hour laws for women in the District of Columbia, Arizona, Colorado and Washington. Eight-hour laws applicable both to men and women in certain private and public establishments may indirectly be upheld or condemned by the decision.

American Red Cross Renders Great Aid to Servian Wounded

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Work of the American Red Cross hospital unit in Servia under direction of Dr. Edward Ryan of Scranton, Pa., has saved many lives in and around Belgrade, according to Miss Emily Simmonds, a British Red Cross nurse who arrived here today on the steamship St. Paul. Miss Simmonds was sent with the first British expeditionary force into France and from there to Servia.

"With seven young English girls, I have worked in the trenches 400 yards from the firing line for 48 hours at a time," she said. "The coming of the American unit under Dr. Edward Ryan was a godsend to the Servians for at the time we were down to our last bits of bandages and dressings and were living on short rations. Up to the arrival of Dr. Ryan and his American nurses the hospital was constantly in danger of artillery fire. Dr. Ryan's first act was to unfurl the American flag over the building. It was instantly respected and conditions rapidly improved.

"The St. Paul brought six Belgian families, consisting of 21 persons, the advance contingent of between 75 and 100 families who expect to settle in the southwestern part of the United States.
